Learning Objectives :

- Learn how to use one-word substitutions, foreign words, and technical terms in order to make language clear and less ambiguous.
- Understand the processes of word formation and their types, such as compounding, clipping, blending, and borrowing, to expand and diversify vocabulary.
- Be able to use prefixes and suffixes to form new words and modify meaning.
- Develop skills in identifying and using synonyms, antonyms, abbreviations, and acronyms to enrich language use and understanding.
- Strengthen grammar skills, which include parts of speech, tenses, articles, subject-verb agreement, and active-passive voice in constructing correct and effective sentences.
- Enhance one's ability to communicate on all fronts through improved vocabulary and grammar in a professional or academic setup.

2.1 Introduction

This unit focuses on the key elements of effective communication — vocabulary and grammar. In delving into the creative mechanisms of word creation and language subtlety, the students acquire the ability to clearly express ideas and be specific with their words. It discusses one-word replacements, loan and technical words, and strategies for expanding vocabulary by learning prefixes, suffixes, and synonyms. It also gives a good base in grammar, which includes parts of speech, tenses, articles, subject-verb agreement, and the change of active to passive voice. All these skills are meant to enhance both written and oral communication, thus overall linguistic ability.

2.2 One-Word Substitutes

Clear and concise communication is highly valued in engineering and technical writing. One-word substitutes significantly aid this, replacing lengthy complex phrases with a single word. The result is efficient sentences but also easier reading and higher precision. Professional and academic writing especially demands this form of writing where brevity and clarity are important. Mastering the usage of one-word substitutes is an essential skill for any engineering student to communicate more effectively in reports, presentations, and technical documentation. This section will assist students in broadening their vocabulary and improving writing by introducing one-word substitutes into their everyday communication.

Definition :

A one-word substitute is the word replacing a group of words or an entire sentence while conveying the same meaning.

Example :

- Instead of saying "a person who talks too much," use the word loquacious.

Purpose :

- Simplifies and makes sentences shorter.
- Improves the quality of communication across academic, professional, or creative writing.
- Gives a professional and polished color to writing and speaking.

➤ Importance of One-Word Substitutes1. In Academic Writing :

- They make essays and research papers concise and highly effective.

Example : Autobiography replaces "the story of a person's life written by themselves."

2. In Professional Writing :

- It gives clarity and precision in business communication.

Example : Resign replaces "to formally quit a position."

3. In Creative Writing :

- They add color and variety.

Example : Murder replaces "the intentional killing of another person."

4. In Daily Communication :

- They make informal speaking and writing more interesting and effective.

Example : Hopeful replaces "always seeing the positive side of things."

➤ Advantages of Learning One-Word Substitutes

- Improves your vocabulary and language skills.
- Improves the clarity and concision of expression.
- Reduces redundancy and improves professionalism.
- Increases word power, which helps in competitive exams like GRE, TOEFL, and IELTS.

➤ List of One-Word Substitutes

- Altruist : A person who works for the welfare of others.
- Agnostic : A person who believes that the existence of God is unknown or unknowable.
- Arsonist : A person who sets fire to property deliberately.
- Astronomer : A person who studies celestial bodies.
- Bibliophile : A person who loves books.
- Bureaucracy : A system of government managed by departments staffed with non-elected officials.
- Botanist : A scientist who studies plants.
- Cemetery : A place where dead bodies are buried.
- Connoisseur : A person with expert knowledge in matters of taste (e.g., food, art).
- Cartographer : A person who draws maps.
- Dermatologist : A doctor who specializes in skin-related issues.
- Dyslexia : A condition that affects reading and writing ability.
- Egoist : A person who is selfish and self-centered.
- Etymologist : A person who studies the origin and history of words.
- Fatalist : A person who believes that all events are predetermined.
- Flora : The plant life of a particular region.
- Gastronomy : The art and science of preparing and eating good food.
- Geologist : A scientist who studies the structure and history of the Earth.
- Herbivore : An animal that feeds only on plants.
- Harbinger : A person or thing that announces the arrival of something.
- Iconoclast : A person who opposes traditional beliefs and institutions.
- Introvert : A person who is shy and prefers solitude.
- Juggler : A person who performs tricks by throwing objects into the air and catching them.
- Journalist : A person who writes for newspapers or magazines.
- Kleptomania : A mental illness causing a desire to steal things.
- Knight : A man given a rank of honor by the monarch.
- Lexicographer : A person who compiles dictionaries.
- Linguist : A person skilled in multiple languages.
- Matriarchy : A society governed by women.

- Monarchy : A government ruled by a king or queen.
- Nomad : A person who moves from place to place without a permanent home.
- Novelist : A person who writes novels.
- Optimist : A person who always looks at the brighter side of life.
- Ornithologist : A person who studies birds.
- Pessimist : A person who expects the worst outcome in any situation.
- Philanthropist : A person who works for the welfare of others.
- Polyglot : A person who knows and uses several languages.

- Youthful : Someone who appears or acts young.
- Zoologist : A scientist who studies animals.
- Zealot : A person who is fanatically committed to a cause.

2.3 Foreign and Technical Words

Language is a living being that keeps changing with time, adopting words and expressions from other languages and other fields of study. Borrowing foreign words makes the language richer in terms of diversity. Technical words assist in proper communication about certain matters. This chapter tries to present the meaning, examples and usage of foreign and technical words in English.

2.3.1 Foreign Words

A foreign word is a borrowing of words from other languages. Usually, these words do not change form and thus remain close to the original pronunciation and spelling. They appear in italics in English to reflect their origins.

Foreign words are commonly used in academic, legal, philosophical, and cultural contexts. Their usage adds precision and variety to the language, but they are often italicized to highlight their origin.

➤ Common Foreign Words in English :

1. Ad hoc (Latin) - Meaning "for this purpose" or "for a particular situation."
2. Ballerina (Italian) - Meaning "A woman who is a ballet dancer."
3. Café (French) - Meaning "Coffee" refers to a coffee shop or a small restaurant where light meals and drinks are served.
4. Glitch (German) - Meaning "Small problem or fault that prevents something from being successful."
5. Bungalow (Hindi) - Meaning "bangla" or "a house in the Bengal style." Refers to a single-story house or a house with a sloped roof, often surrounded by a veranda.

➤ Characteristics of Foreign Words :

1. Origin : Borrowed from languages such as Latin, French, Greek, German, Italian, and others.
2. Specialized Use : Would very often occur in legal, philosophical, cultural, or academic settings.
3. Italicization : Foreign words in written English are often italicized to be distinguished from standard English words.
4. Retention of Original Form : Foreign words mostly maintain their original spelling and pronunciation.

2.3.2 Technical Words

Technical words are specialized terms used within specified fields or professions. Specialized words have precise meaning relevant to a particular field and are used to express elaborate ideas.

Technical words are specific to a given field, like science or medicine or business. These increase clarity and precision in the professionals communicating with each other.

➤ Common Technical Words and Their Fields :

1. Photosynthesis (Biology) - The process by which green plants and some other organisms use sunlight to synthesize foods from carbon dioxide and water.
2. Benign (Medicine) - A term used to describe a condition that is not harmful in the long run, especially used for non-cancerous tumors.
3. Abrasion (Mechanical Engineering) - The process of wearing down or rubbing away by friction, often used in materials science.
4. Exfoliating (Beauty Therapy) - A process in skincare where dead skin cells are removed from the surface of the skin, often through scrubbing or the use of chemical exfoliants.
5. Quantum (Physics) - A definite amount of energy which is directly proportional in value to the frequency of the radiation it corresponds to.

➤ Characteristics of Technical Words :

1. Precision : Technical terms are very specific in their meaning. They ensure precision and accuracy in a particular field.
2. Field-Specific : Technical terms are used mostly in professional, scientific, or technical purposes and are usually not easily understandable by people who are not professionals in that particular field.
3. Denotative Meaning : Bring literal dictionary definition with no space for ambiguity.
4. Usage : It is used for effective communication among experts and professionals within the specific field.

2.3.3 Importance of Foreign and Technical Terms in English

- Enriching Vocabulary : English has borrowed words from various languages, such as Latin, Greek, French, and others, that create the richness of its vocabulary. This borrowing allows speakers to describe finer ideas, especially in scholarly and professional settings.
- Enhancing Communication :
 - Foreign words enhance diversity and richness in communication, especially if the subject matter involves discussions on law, philosophy, or culture.
 - Technical words provide precision in communication in areas of specialization, which promotes ease of understanding among professionals.
- Contextual Use : Understanding the context in which foreign and technical words are used improves their comprehension. Though they may be commonly used in certain fields, their use in general conversation may be limited or require explanation.

➤ Comparison of Foreign and Technical Words

Foreign Words	Technical Words
1. Borrowed from other languages.	Field-specific terms with precise meanings.
2. Derived from Latin, French, etc.	Found in professional or scientific fields.
3. Add richness and cultural nuance.	Convey technical or specialized ideas.
4. Academic, cultural, legal.	Scientific, professional, industrial.
5. May require understanding of the foreign language	Requires knowledge of the specific field

➤ Examples of Foreign Words :

Word	Origin	Meaning
Faux pas	French	A social mistake or blunder
Rendezvous	French	A meeting or appointment
Alma mater	Latin	The school or college one graduated from
Karaoke	Japanese	Singing along to recorded music
Guru	Sanskrit	A spiritual teacher or expert
Schadenfreude	German	Pleasure derived from someone's misfortune
Bon voyage	French	Have a good trip

➤ Examples of Technical Words :

Word	Field	Meaning
Algorithm	Computer Science	A step-by-step procedure for calculations
Photosynthesis	Biology	Process by which plants make food using sunlight

Derivative	Mathematics	A rate of change of a function
Amortization	Finance	Gradual repayment of a loan
Bandwidth	Technology	The capacity of a network to transmit data

Foreign and technical words are part of modern English, reflecting cultural diversity and advances in knowledge. Understanding their meanings and contexts will enhance general and professional communication skills.

2.4 Introduction to Word Formation

Word formation is the process that develops new words in the vocabulary of a language. The word formation process gives voice to new concepts and ideas. It is an indispensable mechanism in the development of a language's vocabulary because of the fact that this kind of language is dynamic, or dynamic and flexible as a result. English uses many processes of word formation.

➤ Importance of Word Formation

1. Vocabulary Development : Facilitates the coining of new words to denote new inventions, ideas, or trends.
2. Flexibility : Allows the language to adjust to changing times and cultural influence.
3. Clarity and Preciseness : Enablers of speakers to state ideas more precisely through appropriate words.
4. Creative Expression : Aids creativity in the use of language, especially in literature, advertising, and the media.

2.5 Types of Word Formation Processes2.5.1 Compounding

Compounding occurs when two or more independent words are placed together to form a new word. The resulting word normally takes on a meaning of its own, a compound meaning, but sometimes uses an entirely new meaning for itself.

Example : Toothbrush (Tooth + Brush)

➤ Types of Compounds :

1. Closed Compounds :

- Closed compound words are formed when two words are joined together into one without leaving any space between them. These words are used as a single unit and usually express a particular meaning.
- Example : The word notebook is a closed compound because it joins the words note and book without leaving any space between them.
- List of Closed Compound Words

Teaspoon	Bedroom	Raincoat
Tablespoon	Classroom	Pineapple
Homework	Highlight	Football
Sunflower	Haircut	Snowman
Cupcake	Handbag	Goldfish

- Closed compound words are very common in everyday language, and the meaning of the word is often determined by the combination of the original words.

2. Open Compounds :

- Open compound words are phrases where two or more words come together to function as a single unit of meaning, but they are written with a space between them. Though they look like separate words, their meaning is different from the individual words used.

- Example : The word "living room," there is a space between "living" and "room," but the two words together describe a common area in a house for relaxation or socializing.
- List of Open Compound Words

Washing machine	Video game	Training center
Full moon	Voice mail	Birthday party
Dining table	Credit card	Fairy tale
Root word	Hand bag	Fill up
Swimming pool	Research paper	Coffee shop

3. Hyphenated Compounds :

- Hyphenated compound words are formed by joining two or more words with a hyphen (-) to create a single term. The hyphen helps clarify the relationship between the words and avoids confusion or ambiguity.
- Example : The word mother-in-law is a hyphenated compound word, where the three words mother, in, and law combine to represent the mother of one's spouse.

Sugar-free	Full-time	In-depth
Part-time	Runner-up	High-speed
Co-author	Father-in-law	Well-being
State-of-the-art	Long-term	Son-in-law
Well-known	Self-esteem	Up-to-date

2.5.2 Clipping

Clipping is a type of word formation where one or more parts of the word are removed to reduce the length of the word, usually without changing the original meaning or word class. Such a word is often simple, easy to use, and widely adopted in everyday language.

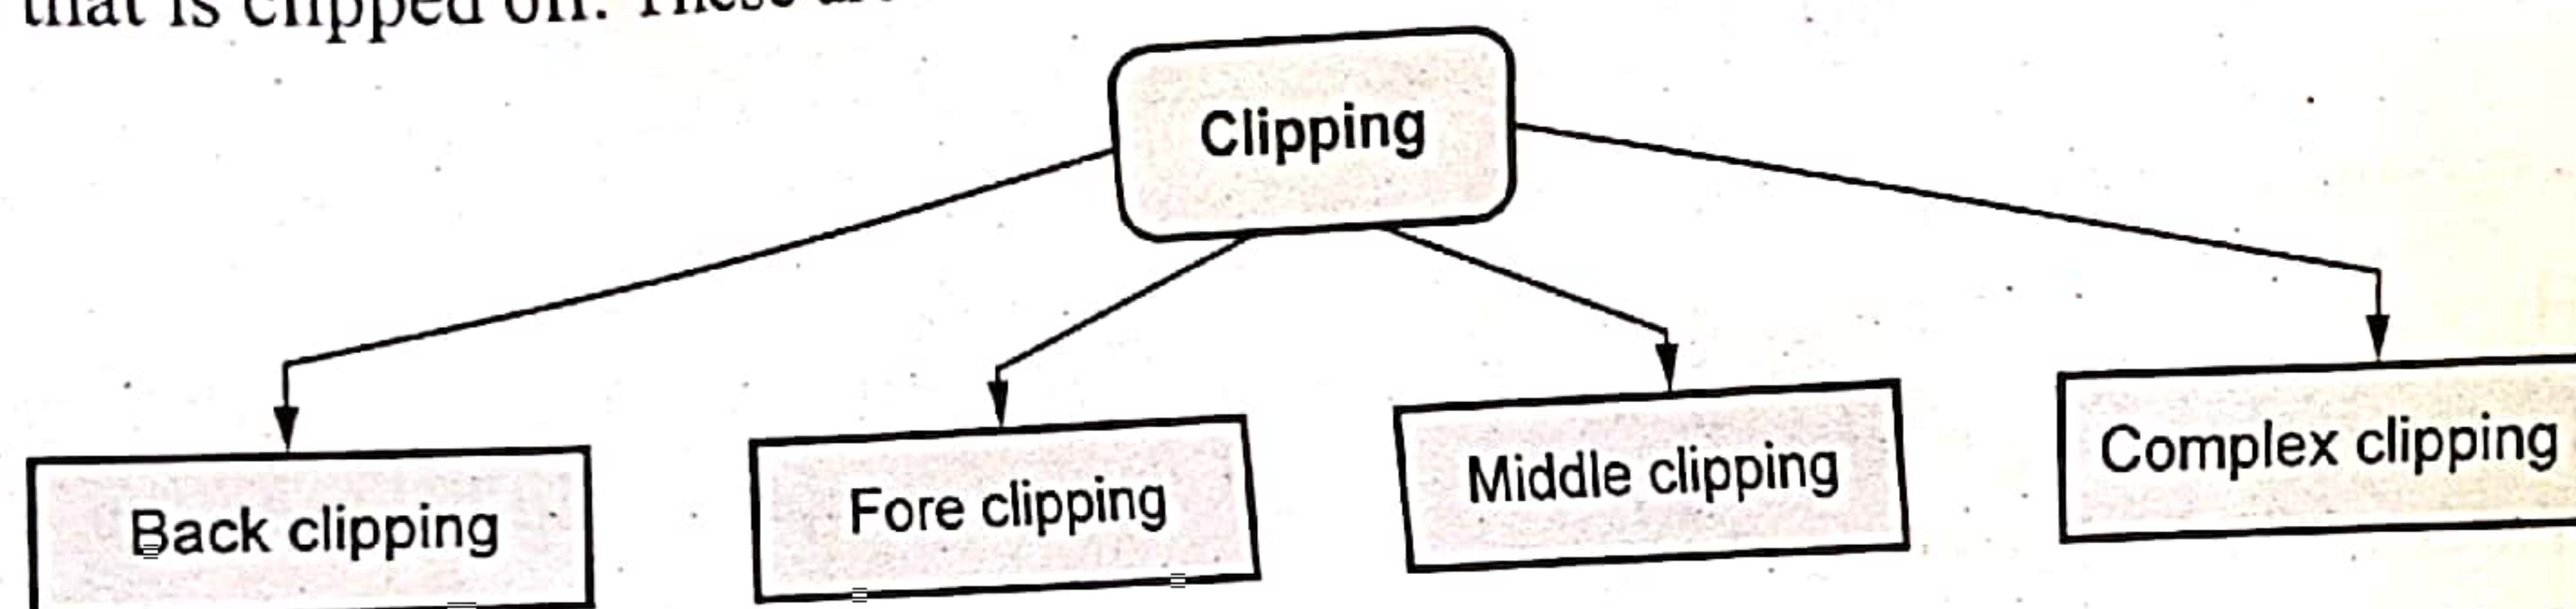

Example : Exam = Examination

EXAMINATION

Types of Clipping

There are four types of clipping. Clipping can be classified depending on the part of the word that is clipped off. These are :

1. Back Clipping : This is clipping where the beginning of the word is left while its end part is removed. Back clipping shortens a word by cutting out part of its end.

Example :

Original word	Clipped word	Original word	Clipped word
Advertisement	Ad	Laboratory	Lab
Biology	Bio	Gymnasium	Gym
Cafeteria	Cafe	Memorandum	Memo
Demonstration	Demo	Photograph	Photo
Gasoline	Gas	Maximum	Max

2. Fore Clipping : This clipping removes the beginning of the word and leaves its ending intact. Fore clipping shortens a word by cutting out part of its starting part.

Example :

Original word	Clipped word	Original word	Clipped word
Aeroplane	Plane	Internet	Net
Automobile	Mobile	Hamburger	Burger

Caravan	Van	Robot	Bot
Helicopter	Copter	Telephone	Phone
Website	Site	Motorbike	Bike

3. Middle Clipping : In this type, the middle portion of the word is removed, and the remaining parts are kept.

Example :

Original word	Clipped word	Original word	Clipped word
Mathematics	Maths	Spectacles	Specs
Madam	Ma'am	Statistics	Stats
Fantasy	Fancy	Vegetables	Veggies

4. Complex Clipping : This is clipping of multi-word phrases to form either a single word or reduced form.

Original word	Clipped word	Original word	Clipped word
Cable Telegram	Cablegram	Optical art	Op art
Situation Comedy	Sitcom	Science Fiction	Sci-fi
Middlebrow Culture	Midcult	Linoleum cut	Linocut
Foreign Exchange	Forex	Binary Digit	Bit
Organization man	Org man	Navigation certificate	Navicert

2.5.3 Blending

Blending is the process of merging parts of two existing words to create a new word. It often combines the beginning of one word with the end of another.

Example :

I. Brunch : Brunch is a combination of both breakfast and lunch. Refers to a meal consumed between breakfast and lunch.

II. Smog : Smog is a combination of smoke and fog. It is an example of polluted air.

Autoplay = Automatic + Play	Motel = Motor + Hotel
Biopic = Biographical + Picture	Spork = Spoon + Fork
Chillax = Chill + Relax	Telecast = Television + Cast
Frappuccino = Frappe + Cappuccino	Vlog = Video + Blog
Jeggings = Jeans + Leggings	Webinar = Web + Seminar

2.5.4 Derivation

Derivation is a word-formation process in which prefixes or suffixes are used with base words or root words to make new words. These words would have the original word's meaning changed into a new one. Derivation usually changes the grammar category (part of speech) or the meaning of the original word as well.

• Example :

(prefix) (noun) (suffix)
un luck y

Prefix	Base Word	Suffix	Derived Word
-Un	Comfort	-able	Uncomfortable
-Im	Perfection	-tion	Imperfection
-Dis	Advantage	-ous	Disadvantageous
-Il	Legal	-ly	Illegally
-Pre	Arrange	-ment	Prearrangement

2.5.5 Creative Respelling

Creative respelling is one form of word formation that changes the spelling of a word or name, but not its pronunciation to come out with a specific and distinct look, mostly used in branding, aesthetic appeal, and playful purposes. Even though the pronunciation will generally stay the same, creative or modern flair is achieved with this alteration in spelling.

kool (from cool)

Kwik (from Quick)

• Example

Brand Names	Product Names	Personalization or Informality	Social Media Handles / Trendy Words
Flickr (from "Flicker")	Kool-Aid (from "Cool-Aid")	Thanx (from "Thanks")	Gr8 (from "Great")
Lyft (from "Lift")	Cheez-It (from "Cheese-It")	Xpress (from "Express")	2day (from "Today")

2.5.6 Coining

Coining is creating new words or terms for something that was not used before. Newly invented terms, known as neologisms, often develop to introduce new ideas, inventions, or cultural phenomena. Among the word formation processes that are important for the evolution of language is coining in the era of new technology, new science, and new trends.

• Example

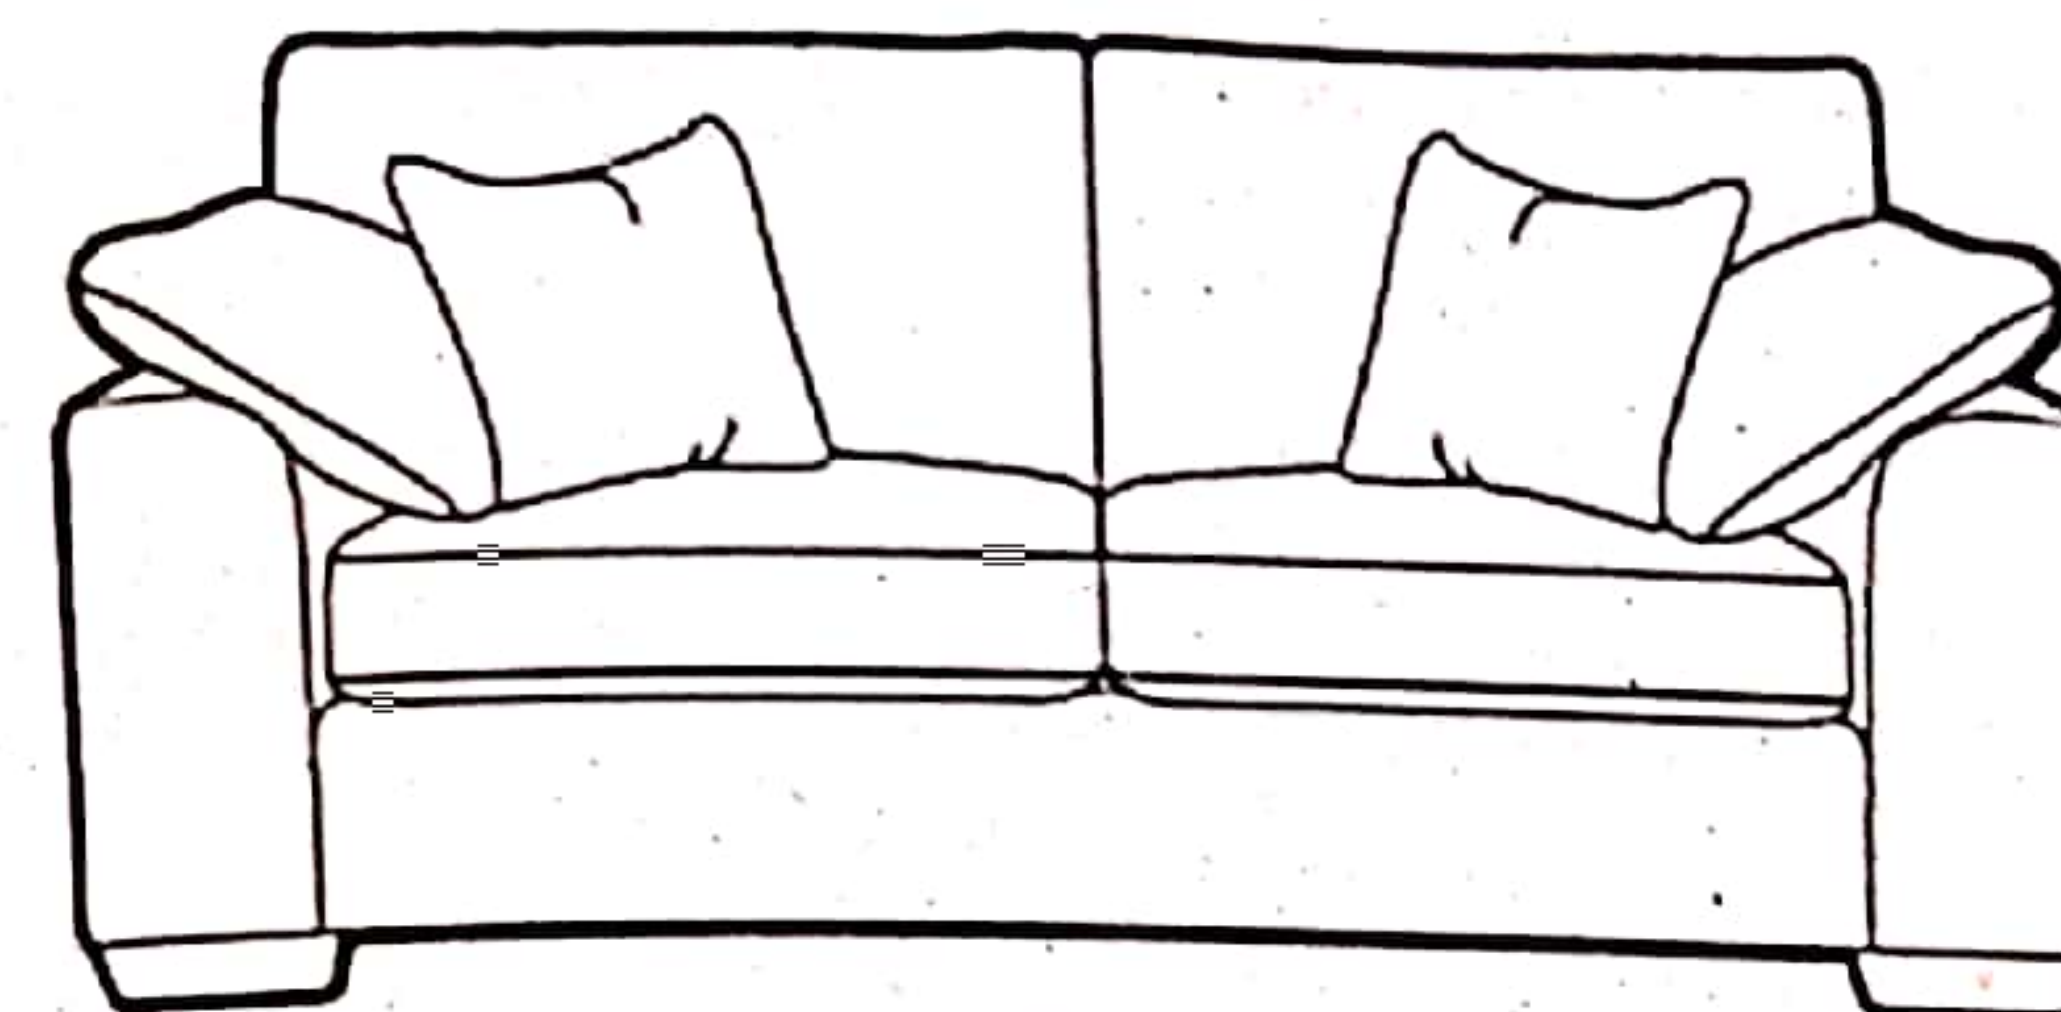

= A search engine and now a verb meaning "to search online."

Aspirin : A pain-relieving drug coined by Bayer in 1899.	Muggle : Coined by J.K. Rowling in Harry Potter for non-magical people.
Band-aid : A brand name coined by Johnson & Johnson in 1920 for adhesive bandages.	Nylon : A synthetic polymer fiber coined by DuPont in 1935.
Kodak : A completely coined term for a camera brand.	Kleenex : A disposable tissue brand name coined by Kimberly-Clark in 1924.
Escalator : A moving staircase originally coined as a brand name by the Otis Elevator Company in 1900.	Xerox : A coined term for photocopying.
Heroin : A trademarked name by Bayer in 1898 for diacetylmorphine, later genericized.	Vaseline : Product from petroleum jelly coined by Robert Chesebrough in 1872.

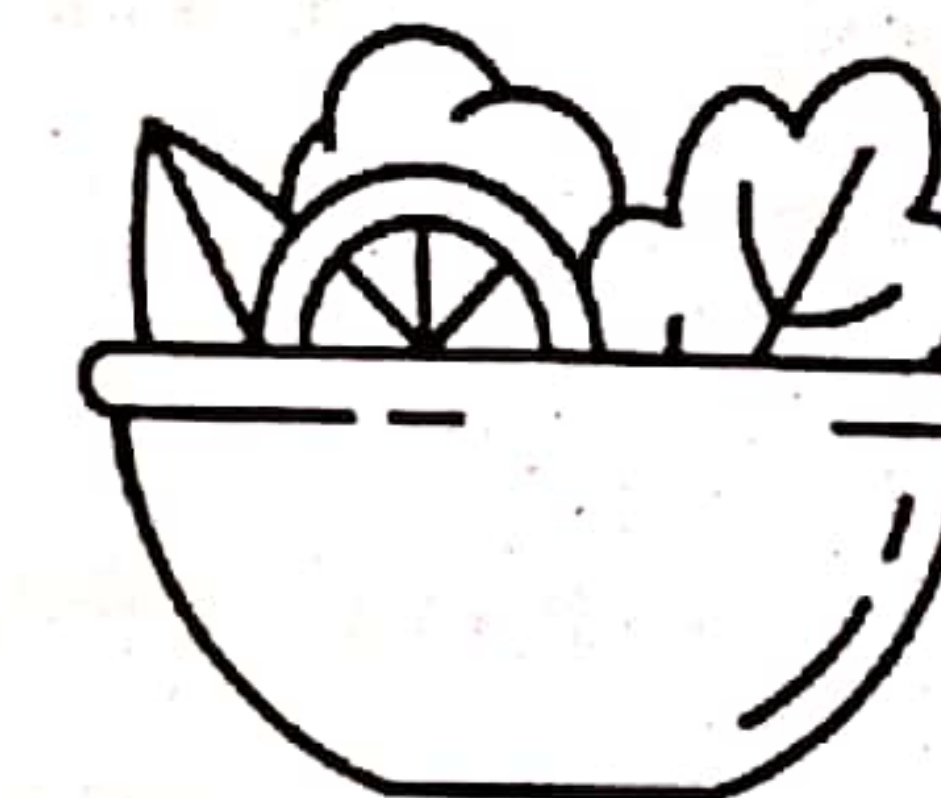

2.5.7 Borrowing

Borrowing is a word formation process where a language takes words from another language and incorporates them into its own vocabulary. These borrowed words, known as loanwords, can come from various languages due to cultural, historical, or trade interactions. Over time, these borrowed words may undergo phonetic, morphological, or syntactic changes to better fit the grammar and pronunciation of the borrowing language.

• Example :

Sofa

Salads

Sofa from Arabic and Salad from French

English has borrowed many words from languages like Latin, French, and German. Some of the examples include :

Borrowed Word	Source Language	Borrowed Word	Source Language
Yoga	Hindi	Agenda	Latin
Bungalow		Data
Cuisine	French	Pizza	Italian
Bouquet		Piano
Plaza	Spanish	Kindergarten	German
Barbecue		Blitz
Calculus	Greek	Zero	Arabic
Philosophy		Algebra
Avtar	Sanskrit	Tsunami	Japanese
Karma		Emoji

2.6 Acquaintance with Prefixes and Suffixes

Prefixes and suffixes are linguistic tools used in the English language that can help enhance vocabulary and aid in understanding the structure and meaning of words. These elements of the language change the base or root word, either by adding to its beginning (prefix) or to its end (suffix), thereby creating new words or changing their meanings, forms, or functions.

➤ Prefixes

- A prefix is a combination of letters placed before a root word to modify its meaning.
- Example : un + happy = unhappy.

➤ Types of Prefixes1. Negative Prefixes : Indicate negation or the opposite meaning.

- un- (unhappy, unclear, unfair)
- in- (incomplete, incapable, incomplete)
- dis- (disagree, disapprove, dislike)
- non- (nonsense, nonverbal, non attendee)

2. Quantity or Number Prefixes : Indicate numbers or amounts.

- mono- (monologue, monochrome, monophthongs)
- bi- (bilingual, bicycle, bisyllabic)
- multi- (multitask, multimedia, multipurpose)
- semi- (semicircle, semicolon, semiconductor)

3. Time or Order Prefixes : Indicate time or sequence.

- pre- (prepaid, preview, prewedding)
- post- (postgraduate, postpone, postapply)
- re- (rewrite, reread, reprint)

4. Degree or Intensity Prefixes : Indicate extent or intensity.

- super- (superhuman, superstar, superpower)
- ultra- (ultramodern, ultraviolet, ultrasonic)
- over- (overestimate, overuse, overtime)

- Suffixes : A suffix is a combination of letters placed after a root word to modify its meaning.

Example : happy + ness = happiness.

➤ Types of Suffixes1. Noun Suffixes : Derive nouns from other parts of speech.

- -ness (kind → kindness)
- -tion (inform → information)
- -er, -or (teach → teacher, act → actor)

2. Verb Suffixes : Form verbs or change verb forms.

- -ize (real → realize)
- -ify (beauty → beautify)
- -en (Strength → Strengthen)

3. Adjective Suffixes : Form adjectives or change the meaning of adjectives.

- -ful (joy → joyful)
- -less (care → careless)
- -ous (fame → famous)

4. Adverb Suffixes : Form adverbs.

- -ly (quick → quickly)
- -wise (Clock → Clockwise)
- -where (Some → Somewhere)

Here are examples of words formed using both prefixes and suffixes together, demonstrating how they change the base word's meaning and function :

Prefix	Base Word	Suffix	Formed Word	Meaning
un-	happy	-ness	unhappiness	The state of not being happy
dis-	agree	-ment	disagreement	The process of not agreeing
re-	act	-ion	reaction	The process of acting again
pre-	arrange	-ment	prearrangement	The process of arranging beforehand
mis-	understand	-ing	misunderstanding	The process of understanding wrongly
in-	visible	-ity	invisibility	The state of being not visible
im-	possible	-ity	impossibility	The state of being not possible
over-	react	-ion	overreaction	The process of reacting excessively
sub-	divide	-ion	subdivision	The process of dividing into smaller parts
super-	natural	-ly	supernaturally	In a way beyond what is natural

2.7 Synonyms and Antonyms

Synonyms and antonyms are key factors in developing a sound vocabulary and improving language. Synonyms help to convey a point more clearly and enhance spoken and written communication by diversity.

➤ Synonyms :

- A synonym is a word that has the same or very similar meaning as another.
- Synonyms prevent duplication of phrases and make language much richer and more interesting.

• Example :

- Above → Over, Higher, Upon
- Broad → Wide, Expansive, Vast
- Complex → Complicated, Intricate, Sophisticated
- Smart → Intelligent, Clever, Bright
- Start → Begin, Commence, Initiate

➤ Antonyms :

- Antonyms are words or phrases that have opposite meanings.
- They are handy in conveying contrasts and oppositions.

• Example :

- Above → Below, Beneath, Under
- Broad → Narrow, Limited, Small
- Complex → Simple, Basic, Straightforward
- Smart → Foolish, Dumb, Stupid
- Start → Stop, End, Finish

➤ List of Synonyms and Antonyms

Word	Synonyms	Antonyms
Angry	Furious, Mad, Irritated	Calm, Peaceful, Content
Beautiful	Attractive, Lovely, Pretty	Ugly, Unattractive
Big	Large, Huge, Enormous	Small, Tiny, Little
Brave	Courageous, Bold, Fearless	Cowardly, Timid, Fearful
Bright	Intelligent, Clever, Smart	Dull, Stupid, Dumb

Clean	Neat, Tidy, Spotless	Dirty, Messy, Unclean
Fast	Quick, Speedy, Rapid	Slow, Sluggish, Leisurely
Happy	Joyful, Cheerful, Content	Sad, Unhappy, Miserable
Hard	Difficult, Tough, Rigid	Easy, Soft, Gentle
Honest	Truthful, Sincere, Candid	Dishonest, Deceptive, Lying
Hot	Warm, Scorching, Boiling	Cold, Cool, Freezing
Important	Significant, Crucial, Vital	Unimportant, Insignificant
Large	Big, Enormous, Immense	Small, Tiny, Petite
Lazy	Idle, Inactive, Sluggish	Energetic, Active, Industrious
Modern	Contemporary, New, Recent	Old-fashioned, Antiquated
Strong	Sturdy, Robust, Powerful	Weak, Fragile, Feeble
Tall	High, Lofty, Elevated	Short, Small, Petite
True	Authentic, Real, Genuine	False, Fake, Deceptive
Weak	Fragile, Feeble, Delicate	Strong, Sturdy, Powerful

2.8 Standard Abbreviations and Acronyms

Abbreviations and acronyms are the shortened forms of words or phrases that are commonly used in all fields to save time, space, and effort. Understanding these enhances comprehension, especially in technical, scientific, and everyday communication.

- Abbreviations : Shortened forms of words or phrases.

- Example : Dr. for Doctor, etc. for et cetera.

- Acronyms : Composed from initial letters of words of a phrase and pronounced like a word.

- Example : NASA for National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

➤ Types of Abbreviations

1. General Abbreviations : Generally used in ordinary language and composition.

▪ Examples :

- Mr. (Mister)
- Mrs. (Mistress)
- Govt. (Government)
- Dept. (Department)

2. Professional Titles : Used to indicate qualifications or professions.

■ Examples :

- Dr. (Doctor)
- Prof. (Professor)
- Lt. (Lieutenant)
- Rev. (Reverend)

3. Measurement and Units : Common in scientific, mathematical, and technical application.

■ Examples :

- kg (kilogram)
- cm (centimeter)
- ml (milliliter)

4. Latin Abbreviations : Extending from Latin phrases, widely employed in formal composition.

■ Examples :

- etc. (et cetera: and so on)
- e.g. (exempli gratia: for example)
- i.e. (id est: that is)

5. Abbreviating Common Phrases : Some phrases are commonly abbreviated for convenience.

■ Examples :

- ASAP : As Soon As Possible
- DIY : Do It Yourself
- RSVP : Répondez s'il vous plaît (Please Respond)

6. Abbreviations in Social Media and Texting : This world of instant communication does utilize abbreviations for social media, texting, and chats on the internet.

■ Examples :

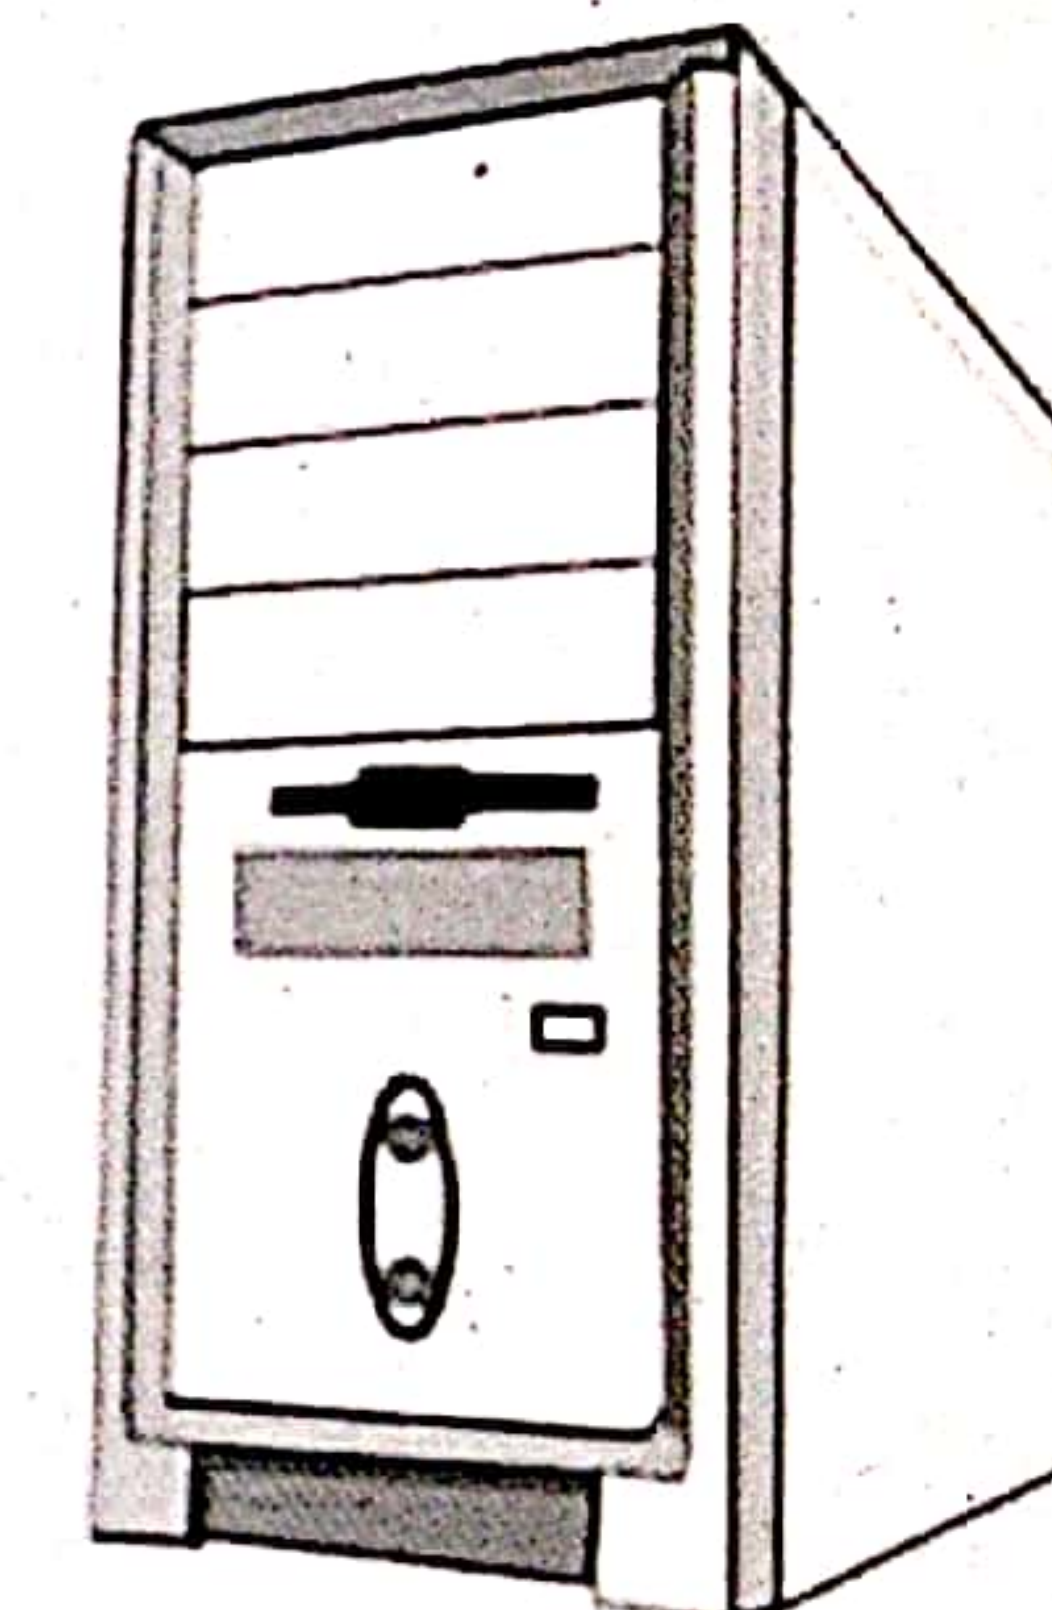

- LOL: Laugh Out Loud
- BRB : Be Right Back
- IDK : I Don't Know
- TMI : Too Much Information
- FYI : For Your Information

- OMG : Oh My God
- DM : Direct Message

➤ Types of Acronyms

1. Initialism :

An initialism is formed by the use of the first letter of each word in the phrase, and each letter is pronounced individually. For example DVD, CPU, etc.

CPU

Initialism	Full Form	Initialism	Full Form
ATM	Automated Teller Machine	IAS	Indian Administrative Service
CPU	Central Processing Unit	MRP	Maximum Retail Price
CID	Crime Investigation Department	OMG	Oh My God
CBI	Central Bureau of Investigation	PDF	Portable Document Format
DNA	Deoxyribonucleic Acid	SOS	Save Our Souls
FAQ	Frequently Asked Questions	UK	United Kingdom
GST	Goods and Service Tax	USA	United States of America
HIV	Human Immunodeficiency Virus	UN	United Nations

2. Pronounceable Acronyms :

Pronounceable Acronyms that are formed from a phrase where the first letter of each word in a phrase forms a single word and pronounced as one word is called an acronym. For example WiFi, RAM, ROM, etc.

Random Access
Memory

RAM

Read Only
Memory

ROM

Acronym	Full Form
CAPTCHA	Completely Automated Public Turing test to tell Computers and Humans Apart
COVID-19	Coronavirus Disease 2019
JPEG	Joint Photographic Experts Group
LASER	Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation
NATO	North Atlantic Treaty Organization
OPEC	Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries
RADAR	Radio Detection and Ranging
ROM	Read-Only Memory
RAM	Random Access Memory
SCUBA	Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus
SIM	Subscriber Identity Module
SONAR	Sound Navigation and Ranging
SARS	Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome

SWAT Special Weapons and Tactics

SWOT Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats

UNICEF United Nations Children's Fund

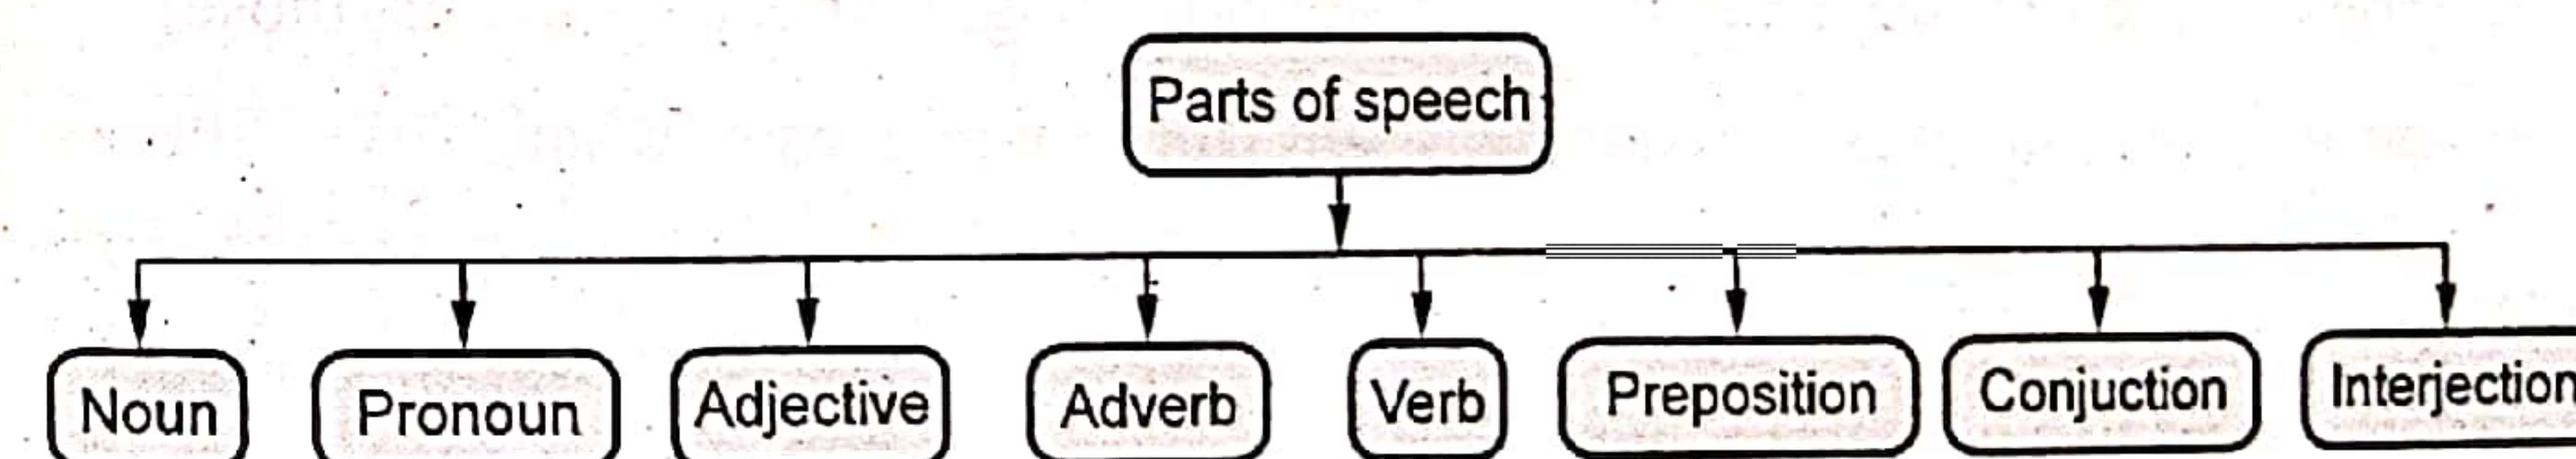

WIFI Wireless Fidelity

2.9 Grammar

Grammar is the system of rules that governs how a language is structured for the formation of sentences. It provides the framework from which words can be fitted into a coherent and efficient form. Grammar is formed by several components that operate in unison to communicate properly and accurately. Following is an introduction to key elements of grammar :

2.9.1 Parts of Speech

The parts of speech are the categories of words, which are classified according to their function and usage within sentences. They are a key component in understanding grammar and creating meaningful sentences. The eight traditional parts of speech are :

1. Noun :

A noun is a word that names a person, place, thing, or idea. It is one of the primary elements that form a sentence and the object or subject in it.

Examples : Mr. John, Surat, Pen, Songs, etc...

• Types of Nouns

- Proper Nouns : Proper nouns denote Specific names of people, places, organizations, or things.
 - Examples : India, Shakespeare, Amazon, Eiffel Tower.
- Common Nouns : General names for a class or category of things.
 - Examples : city, writer, building, car.

- Abstract Nouns : Words that name ideas, qualities, or concepts that cannot be physically sensed.

- Examples : happiness, bravery, wisdom.

- Concrete Nouns : Words that name tangible things that can be seen, touched, or experienced physically.

- Examples : book, apple, chair.

- Countable Nouns : Words that can be counted as individual items.

- Examples : chairs, apples, books.

- Uncountable Nouns : Words that represent masses or concepts that cannot be counted individually.

- Examples : water, sugar, information.

2. Pronouns :

A pronoun is a word which is used instead of a noun.

• Types of Pronoun :

- Personal Pronouns : Refer to persons or things (for example, I, he, we, they).
- Possessive Pronouns : Indicating ownership (for example, mine, yours).
- Reflexive Pronouns : Pointing back to the subject (for example, himself, ourselves).
- Demonstrative Pronouns : Pointing out specific things (for example, this, those).
- Interrogative Pronouns : Used in questions (for example, who, what).

3. Verbs :

A verb is a word that indicates actions, events, or states of being.

• Types of Verb

- Action Verbs : Describe actions (run, eat).
- Linking Verbs : Link the subject to an adjective / noun (is, seem).
- Helping / Auxiliary Verbs : Assist main verbs (has, can).
- Tenses : The time when the action occurred (past, present, future).

4. Adjectives :

An adjective is to describe or modify nouns or pronouns.

• Types of Adjectives :

- Descriptive Adjectives : Describe qualities (red, large).
- Quantitative Adjectives : Quantify (some, several).

- Demonstrative Adjectives : Point to specific nouns (this, that)
- Comparative and Superlative Forms : Indicate degrees (bigger, biggest).

5. Adverbs :

An adverb is a word that modifies verbs, adjectives, or other adverbs.

• Types of Adverbs

- Adverbs of Manner : Point to how (quickly, gently).
- Adverbs of Time : Point to when (now, yesterday).
- Adverbs of Place : Point to where (here, everywhere).
- Adverbs of Frequency : Point to how often (always, never).
- Adverbs of Degree : Point to intensity (very, too).

6. Prepositions :

A preposition is a word that shows relationships between nouns / pronouns and other words in a sentence.

• Examples :

- Time : at, on, in (e.g., at noon, on Monday).
- Place : under, over, between (e.g., under the bed).
- Direction : to, toward, into (e.g., go to the park).

7. Conjunctions :

A conjunction is a word that connects clauses, sentences, or words.

• Types of Conjunctions

- Coordinating Conjunctions : Join equal parts (e.g., and, but, or).
- Subordinating Conjunctions : Introduce dependent clauses (e.g., because, although).
- Correlative Conjunctions : Work in pairs (e.g., neither.nor, either.or).

8. Interjections :

Interjections are words or phrases that express sudden emotions, feelings, or reactions. They can represent many kinds of emotions and usually come with an exclamation mark (!).

• Examples : Oh! Wow! Ouch!

- Alas! He is no more.
- Wow! That's amazing.
- Hi! Nice to meet you.

2.9.2 Tenses

The word Tense is derived from the Latin word 'tempus' which means time. A verb indicates the time of an action, event or condition by changing its form.

There are three main tenses : past, present, and future. In English, each of these tenses can take four main aspects : simple, perfect, continuous (also known as progressive), and perfect continuous. The perfect aspect is formed using the verb to have, while the continuous aspect is formed using the verb to be.

Certainly! Here's a chart outlining the different tenses in the English language :

2.9.3 Articles

In English there are three articles : a, an and the, which are categorized in two types - Definite and Indefinite. Articles are used before nouns and function as a type of demonstrative adjective.

- Definite Article : "The" is called definite article because it is used before a noun which denotes some particular person or things.
 - He shows the doctor. – means some particular doctor.
- Indefinite Article : A or An is called indefinite article because it is used before a noun which denotes indefinite person or things.
 - A doctor – means any doctor.

➤ Use of the Definite Articles –The

- When we speak about a particular person or thing.
 - The book you want is out of print.
 - I dislike the fellow.
- When a singular noun is meant to represent a whole class.
 - The cow is a useful animal.
 - The computer has made text editing easier.

The : Identifies a specific person, place, or things

- When two blanks given in a sentence and after the blanks given same
 - This is an elephant. The elephant is fat.

2.9.4 Subject-Verb Agreement

- Subject-verb agreement means that the subject and the verb must agree in case and in number. Not only does a verb change its form to tell time, but it also can change its form to indicate how many subjects it has. A verb must agree with its subject in number and person. The number and person of a verb should be the same as its subject.
- Subject-verb agreement is a grammatical rule that states that the verb in a sentence must agree in number with its subject. In other words, if the subject is singular, the verb should be singular, and if the subject is plural, the verb should be plural. This agreement helps maintain the clarity and correctness of a sentence.
- Here are some examples of subject-verb agreement :
 1. Singular subject and singular verb :
 - The cat sleeps on the mat.
 - He runs every morning.
 2. Plural subject and plural verb :
 - The cats sleep on the mats.
 - They run every morning.

3. Singular subject and plural verb :
 - The cat and the dog chase birds.
 - He and she go to the park.
4. Indefinite pronouns with singular or plural verbs :
 - Everyone is invited to the party.
 - Some of the books were missing.
- Subject Verb Agreement Rules are mentioned below along with relevant examples.
- Basic Rule : A singular subject (she, Rahul, car) takes a singular verb (is, goes, shines), whereas a plural subject takes a plural verb.
- Example : The list of items is / are on the desk. Here list is the subject, then we will choose is for the verb.
- In the simple present tense added s/es end of the verb when the subject is 3rd person singular exceptions when using does.
 - He plays.
 - He does not play.
 - Does he play?
- If a subject is modified by the words "each" or "every" that subject is singular and will take a verb form that ends in "s."
 - Each boy and girl walks to the store.
- Indefinite pronouns* are usually singular and take a verb form that ends in "s." (You will find a list of indefinite pronouns at the end of this handout.)
 - Everyone walks to the store.
 - Everything comes back eventually.
- When a collective noun, such as family, group, committee, or class, is the subject, the verb will end in "s."
 - My family with all my crazy cousins always walks to the store.
- When the subject is a unit of measurement of time, distance, money, weight, etc. The unit is considered singular, and the verb will end in "s."
 - Ten pounds of chocolate is too much to eat at once.
 - Thirteen feet of kite string tangles very easily.
- If two or more singular subjects / nouns are joined by 'and', the verb must be plural. For instance;
 - Time and tide wait for no man.

- But, if the two subjects represent one single idea, or to one single person or thing, then the verb has to be singular.
 - The poet and philosopher is awarded. (refers to one person)
 - Bread and butter is a complete food. (refers to single food)
- If two singular subjects are connected by 'and' preceded by 'each, every, no' then the verb is used in singular form.
 - Every son and every daughter of the country was a volunteer.
- Also, if two or more singular subjects are connected by 'or, nor, neither, either...or, neither...nor' the verb is used in singular form. For instance;
 - Either he or I was mistaken.
 - Neither gold or coal is to be found in that state.
- When one of the nouns and pronouns that is joined by 'or, nor' has singular reference and other has plural, then the verb is placed in accordance with the plural subject while placing that plural subject closer to the verb.
 - Rahul or his brothers are to blame.
 - Neither Rahul nor his cousins were present.
- But, if two subjects are joined by 'or, nor' refers to two different individuals, then the verb used in the sentence is singular. For instance;
 - Either you or he is telling a truth.
 - Neither my sister nor I am happy.
- If two nouns are joined by 'with, as well as', the verb should agree with the first noun. If the first noun is singular, the verb must be singular, even when the second subject is plural.
 - Krishna as well as his friend has won the match.
 - The king with all his ministers was injured.
- A collective noun has to be used with a singular or plural verb according to the sense. If the idea conveyed in the sentence is singular, then the verb is singular. If the individuals of the collection are plural in sense, then the verb used should be plural. For instance;
 - The jury were divided in their opinion. (here jury refers to the men of jury)
 - The jury has elected its President. (here jury is considered one body)
- When a plural noun denotes some specific quantity or amount that is considered as a whole, the verb is generally used in singular form.
 - Two-thirds of the village is in ruins. (here 'are' is not used)
 - Five weeks is a good holiday. (here 'are' is not used)

- Also, this scheme is followed with book titles and names of sciences.
 - The Arabian Nights is an amazing book.
 - Physics is a difficult subject.

2.9.5 Active and Passive Voice

Active and Passive Voice are grammatical constructions which describe the relationship between the subject and the action of a sentence. In Active Voice, the subject performs the action, which makes the sentence clear, direct, and dynamic. For example, "The chef prepared the meal." In Passive Voice, the subject receives the action, usually shifting the emphasis to the action or object rather than the doer. For example, "The meal was prepared by the chef." The knowledge of both voices is very important for communicating effectively because they allow flexibility to emphasize different aspects of a sentence based on the context and purpose.

➤ Active Voice

In an active voice, the subject is doing the action, and there is emphasis on the subject that performs the action. This style is usually straightforward and interesting to read.

• Example :

- The dog (subject) chased (verb) the cat (object).

➤ Passive Voice

In passive voice, the subject is a receiver of the action. There is emphasis on the action or the object being acted on.

• Example :

- The cat (subject) was chased (verb) by the dog (object).

➤ Rules for Active and Passive Voice : Simple Present Tense

The Simple Present tense has specific rules regarding how to change active voice to passive voice. The rules are explained below with examples.

• Affirmative sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + Verb (V1) + s/es + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + is/am/are + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Negative sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + do/does + not + Verb (V1) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + is/am/are + not + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Interrogative Sentences

- Active Voice : Does + Subject + Verb (V1) + Object?
- Passive Voice : Is/Am/Are + Object + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject?

• Examples

	Active Voice	Passive Voice
1.	He reads a novel.	A novel is read by him.
2.	He does not cook food.	Food is not cooked by him.
3.	Does he purchase books?	Are books purchased by him?
4.	They grow plants.	Plants are grown by them.
5.	She teaches me.	I am taught by her.

➤ Key Points

- Use is, am, or are in the passive voice based on the object's singularity or plurality.
 - is → Singular object (A book is read).
 - are → Plural object (Books are read).
 - am → First-person singular (I am taught).
- Always use the third form (past participle) of the verb in passive voice.
- Include by to indicate the doer (subject) in passive sentences, unless the doer is unnecessary or unknown.

➤ Rules for Active and Passive Voice : Present Continuous Tense

There are specific rules for changing active voice sentences into passive voice sentences in the case of the Present Continuous tense. These are explained below along with examples.

• Affirmative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + is/am/are + Verb(-ing) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + is/am/are + being + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Negative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + is/am/are + not + Verb(-ing) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + is/am/are + not + being + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Interrogative Sentences

- Active Voice : Is/Am/Are + Subject + Verb(-ing) + Object?

- Passive Voice : Is/Am/Are + Object + being + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject?

• Examples

Active Voice	Passive Voice
Rahul is writing a letter.	A letter is being written by Rahul.
Priya is not cleaning the house.	The house is not being cleaned by Priya.
Is Rohan fixing the car?	Is the car being fixed by Rohan?
They are painting the walls.	The walls are being painted by them.
She is helping the children.	The children are being helped by her.

➤ Key Points

- Use is, am, or are + being in passive sentences according to whether the subject is singular, plural, or of which person.
- Always make use of the third form (past participle) of the main verb in the passive voice.
- Use being in passive sentences for maintaining the continuity of action.
- For questions, use verb order that matches interrogative structure in passive voice.

➤ Rules for Active and Passive Voice : Present Perfect Tense

There are specific rules for switching the sentences from active voice to passive voice in case of the Present Perfect tense. The rules are explained below with examples.

• Affirmative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + has/have + Past Participle (V3) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + has/have + been + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Negative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + has/have + not + Past Participle (V3) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + has/have + not + been + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Interrogative Sentences

- Active Voice : Has/Have + Subject + Past Participle (V3) + Object?
- Passive Voice : Has/Have + Object + been + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject?

• Examples

Active Voice	Passive Voice
Ravi has cleaned the room.	The room has been cleaned by Ravi.
She has not completed the assignment.	The assignment has not been completed by her.
Have they signed the contract?	Has the contract been signed by them?
The artist has painted a beautiful scene.	A beautiful scene has been painted by the artist.
I have solved the problem.	The problem has been solved by me.

➤ Key Points

- Utilize has or have + been in passive sentences based upon whether the object is in singularity or plurality,
 - Has → Singular Objects, (The report has been submitted).
 - Have → Plural Objects, (The reports have been submitted).
- Always use the third form (past participle) of the verb in passive voice.
- Questions in passive voice start with Has/Have, followed by object and been.

➤ Rules for Active and Passive Voice : Simple Past Tense

The Past Simple tense of the sentences follows particular rules for converting between active and passive voice. The given explanation is clear along with examples.

Rules

• Affirmative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + Verb (V2) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + was/were + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Negative Sentences

- Active Voice : Subject + did + not + Verb (V1) + Object
- Passive Voice : Object + was/were + not + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject

• Interrogative Sentences

- Active Voice : Did + Subject + Verb (V1) + Object?
- Passive Voice : Was/Were + Object + Past Participle (V3) + by + Subject?

• Examples

Active Voice	Passive Voice
Riya baked a cake.	A cake was baked by Riya.
He did not complete the task.	The task was not completed by him.
