As early as the sixth or seventh century B.C. Panini wrote his great grammar of the Sanskrit language. He mentions previous grammars and already in his time Sanskrit had crystallized and become the language of an ever growing literature. Panini's book is something more than a mere grammar. Professor Th. Stcherabatsky, of Leningrad, described it as one of the greatest productions of the human mind. Panini is still the standard authority on Sanskrit grammar though subsequent grammarians have added to it and interpreted it. It is interesting to note that Panini mentions the Greek script. This indicates that there were some kind of contacts between India and the Greeks long before Alexander came to the East. The study of astronomy was specially pursued and it often merged with astrology. Medicine had its text books and there were hospitals. Dhanwantri is the legendary found of the Indian science of medicine. The best known old text books however, date from the early centuries of the Christian era. These are by Charka on medicine and Sushruta on surgery. Charka is supposed to have been the royal court physician of Kanishka who had his capital in the north-West.

These text books enumerate a large number of diseases and give methods of diagnosis and treatment. They deal with surgery, obstetrics, baths, diet, hygiene, infant feeding, and medical education. The approach was experimental, and dissection of dead bodies was being practiced in course of surgical training. Various surgical instruments are mentioned by Sushruta, as well as operations including amputation of limbs, abdominal, cataract, etc. Wounds were sterilized by fumigator. In the third or fourth century B.C. there were also hospitals for animals. This was probably due to the emphasis on non violence.

2. Directions: Read and summarize the following paragraph in only two sentences. Be specific and clearly explain the main idea. 02

Being a clown isn't all fun and games. Rodeo Clowns expose themselves to great danger every time they perform. When cowboys dismount or bulls throw them off, Rodeo Clowns jump in front of the bulls and move wildly to get their attention. In this way Rodeo Clowns provide an alternate target and in doing so protect the rider. Of course, this is a very dangerous thing to do. So you see, sometimes clowning around can be serious business.

Opera

Opera refers to a dramatic art form, originating in Europe, in which the emotional content is conveyed to the audience as much through music, both vocal and instrumental, as it is through the lyrics. By contrast, in musical theater an actor's dramatic performance is primary, and the music plays a lesser role. The drama in opera is presented using the primary elements of theater such as scenery, costumes, and acting. However, the words of the opera, or libretto, are sung rather than spoken. The singers are accompanied by a musical ensemble ranging from a small instrumental ensemble to a full symphonic orchestra.

1. It is pointed out in the reading that opera ----.

- A) has developed under the influence of musical theater
- B) is a drama sung with the accompaniment of an orchestra
- C) is not a high-budget production
- D) is often performed in Europe
- E) is the most complex of all the performing arts

2. We can understand from the reading that ----.

- A) people are captivated more by opera than musical theater
- B) drama in opera is more important than the music
- C) orchestras in operas can vary considerably in size
- D) musical theater relies above all on music
- E) there is argument over whether the music is important or the words in opera

3. It is stated in the reading that ----.

- A) acting and costumes are secondary to music in musical theater
- B) many people find musical theater more captivating than opera
- C) music in musical theater is not as important as it is in opera
- D) an opera requires a huge orchestra as well as a large choir
- E) opera doesn't have any properties in common with musical theater

Dolphins

Dolphins are regarded as the friendliest creatures in the sea and stories of them helping drowning sailors have been common since Roman times. The more we learn about dolphins, the more we realize that their society is more complex than people previously imagined. They look after other dolphins when they are ill, care for pregnant mothers and protect the weakest in the community, as we do. Some scientists have suggested that dolphins have a language but it is much more probable that they communicate with each other without needing words. Could any of these mammals be more intelligent than man? Certainly the most common argument in favor of man's superiority over them that we can kill them more easily than they can kill us is the least satisfactory. On the contrary, the more we discover about these remarkable creatures, the less we appear superior when we destroy them.

1. It is clear from the passage that dolphins ----.

- A) don't want to be with us as much as we want to be with them
- B) are proven to be less intelligent than once thought
- C) have a reputation for being friendly to humans
- D) are the most powerful creatures that live in the oceans
- E) are capable of learning a language and communicating with humans

2. The fact that the writer of the passage thinks that we can kill dolphins more easily than they can kill us ----.

- A) means that they are better adapted to their environment than we are
- B) shows that dolphins have a very sophisticated form of communication
- C) proves that dolphins are not the most intelligent species at sea
- D) does not mean that we are superior to them
- E) proves that Dolphins have linguistic skills far beyond what we previously thought

3. One can infer from the reading that ----.

- A) dolphins are quite abundant in some areas of the world
- B) communication is the most fascinating aspect of the dolphins
- C) dolphins have skills that no other living creatures have such as the ability to think
- D) it is not usual for dolphins to communicate with each other
- E) dolphins have some social traits that are similar to those of humans

03

Philosophy of Education is a label applied to the study of the purpose, process, nature and ideals of education. It can be considered a branch of both philosophy and education. Education can be defined as the teaching and learning of specific skills, and the imparting of knowledge, judgment and wisdom, and is something broader than the societal institution of education we often speak of.

Many educationalists consider it a weak and woolly field, too far removed from the practical applications of the real world to be useful. But philosophers dating back to Plato and the Ancient Greeks have given the area much thought and emphasis, and there is little doubt that their work has helped shape the practice of education over the millennia.

Plato is the earliest important educational thinker, and education is an essential element in "The Republic" (his most important work on philosophy and political theory, written around 360 B.C.). In it, he advocates some rather extreme methods: removing children from their mothers' care and raising them as wards of the state, and differentiating children suitable to the various castes, the highest receiving the most education, so that they could act as guardians of the city and care for the less able. He believed that education should be holistic, including facts, skills, physical discipline, music and art. Plato believed that talent and intelligence is not distributed genetically and thus is to be found in children born to all classes, although his proposed system of selective public education for an educated minority of the population does not really follow a democratic model.

Aristotle considered human nature, habit and reason to be equally important forces to be cultivated in education, the ultimate aim of which should be to produce good and virtuous citizens. He proposed that teachers lead their students systematically, and that repetition be used as a key tool to develop good habits, unlike Socrates' emphasis on questioning his listeners to bring out their own ideas. He emphasized the balancing of the theoretical and practical aspects of subjects taught, among which he explicitly mentions reading, writing, mathematics, music, physical education, literature, history, and a wide range of sciences, as well as play, which he also considered important.

1. What is the difference between the approaches of Socrates and Aristotle?

- (a) Aristotle felt the need for repetition to develop good habits in students; Socrates felt that students need to be constantly questioned
- (b) Aristotle felt the need for rote-learning; Socrates emphasized on dialogic learning
- (c) There was no difference
- (d) Aristotle emphasized on the importance of paying attention to human nature; Socrates emphasized upon science

2. Why do educationalists consider philosophy a ‘weak and woolly’ field?

- (a) It is not practically applicable
- (b) Its theoretical concepts are easily understood
- (c) It is irrelevant for education
- (d) None of the above

3. Were Plato’s beliefs about education democratic?

- (a) He believed that only the rich have the right to acquire education
- (b) Yes
- (c) He believed that only a select few are meant to attend schools
- (d) He believed that all pupils are not talented.

- (b) You are the office manager and want to remind everyone to clean up after themselves in the lunchroom. There was recently an infestation of cockroaches. The building has since been fumigated but you still require the cooperation of staff to prevent a re-infestation. State the purpose of the memo, your reason(s) for sending it and what actions taken. 04

Q.5 (a) Make a précis in about 1/3 of the following passage. 03

It is physically impossible for a well-educated, intellectual, or brave man to make money the chief object of his thoughts just as it is for him to make his dinner the principal object of them. All healthy people like their dinners, but their dinner is not the main object of their lives. So all healthy minded people like making money ought to like it and enjoy the sensation of winning it; it is something better than money. A good soldier, for instance, mainly wishes to do his fighting well. He is glad of his pay—very properly so and justly grumbles when you keep him ten years without it—till, his main mission of life is to win battles, not to be paid for winning them. So of clergymen. The clergyman's object is essentially baptize and preach not to be paid for preaching. So of doctors. They like fees no doubt—ought to like them; yet if they are brave and well-educated the entire object to their lives is not fees. They on the whole, desire to cure the sick; and if they are good doctors and the choice were fairly to them, would rather cure their patient and lose their fee than kill him and get it. And so with all the other brave and rightly trained men: their work is first, their fee second—very important always; but still second.

Q.5 (a) Read the following paragraph and answer the questions that follow. 03

Of all the trees of southern Asia, the banyan is unique, not only for the manner of its growth, but for the area of shade it provides from the burning sun. Its close relationship with man has evolved over the years to make the banyan a popular meeting place, a focal point of worship and a source of practical materials for commerce.

Known as the ‘strangler fig’ because of its unusual manner of growth, the banyan is an epiphyte or air plant, that has its birth in the branches of a host tree and lives on airborne moisture and nutrients. Banyan seeds are deposited by birds, bats or monkeys in the rich soil collected in the crevices of host-tree branches.

As the banyan grows, it sends aerial roots down the trunk of the supporting tree. In time, the roots that reach the ground choke the host tree by preventing its trunk from enlarging. The two best known species of banyans are: The Indian (Ficus benghalensis), one of the world’s largest tropical trees; and the Chinese (Ficus retusa), a smaller species with fewer aerial roots.

Questions:

1. What are the two ways in which the banyan tree is unique?
2. Why is it called the ‘strangler fig’?
3. Find the antonym of the word ‘terrestrial’.

Q.5 (a) Make a précis in about 1/3 of the following passage.

Discipline is of the utmost importance in student life. If the young students do not obey their superiors and go without discipline, they will be deprived of much of the training they should have at this period and in the future, they will never be able to extract obedience from others in society. Society will never accept them as persons fit for commanding and taking up any responsible positions in life. So all the students must observe discipline in the preparatory stage of their life. A college without discipline can never impart suitable education to students. The rule of discipline in the playground and the battlefield as well plays a very important role. A team without discipline may not fare well despite good players for want of mutual understanding and cooperation. In any army, everyone from the rank of the general down to the ranks of an ordinary soldier must observe discipline. In case a soldier does not obey his immediate superior, the army becomes a rabble - quite unfit for the achievement of the common ends of war. At first sight, it may appear to us that discipline takes away individual liberty. But on analysis, it is found that it does not do so, for liberty is not license. We find disciplined liberty at the root of all kinds of human happiness.

Today's world can truly be called a "society of the spectacle", a phrase that the French sociologist and thinker Guy de Bord used decades earlier. Every act of lived experience has today become a spectacle (an elaborate public display). It would be a little incorrect to say that this craze for spectacle of everything that occurs around us is a recent phenomenon. If one had watched The Pirates of the Caribbean movies, one would realize that even in the late eighteenth century, executions were public events - a large portion of the populace would gather around the site of the hanging in the city square in order to see justice being meted out in front of their very own eyes. It was also a form of popular entertainment. It was a sort of a collective public blood-letting.

The spectacle that the contemporary society has become is an overwhelming experience. One enters into a restaurant, orders an exotic dish – but the proof of having eaten it doesn't exist until tons of photographs are clicked from varied angles and shared on social networking sites, one goes for a holiday to a calm and serene location, but is all the while busy telling the world about it. It is as if one has to document every moment of one's existence. When does one live that moment then? Perhaps it is in the documentation that one survives these days!

Questions:

- Q.1 What do you mean by a 'spectacle'?
- Q.2 Is a 'spectacle' a recent phenomenon?
- Q.3 Do we really 'live' moments now? Why?
- Q.4 State whether the statements are true or false.
- a) Guy de Bord used a phrase 'society of the spectacle' decades earlier.
- b) The above passage is about the movie The Pirates of the Caribbean.

A subject of great debate has been the nature of dreams that people experience. Dreams can range from the mundane to the fantastic.

They can create emotions like anxiety, joy, fear, anger etc...in the dreamer. Dreamers often feel that they experience in their dreams is very real. It is common for people to have recurring dreams. Some people have recurring dreams of falling, flying and being chased. Nightmares are common and often occur among the children and adolescents. Nightmares may be the result of unresolved conflict and anxiety. Many theories have been put forth for why dreams occur. One of the theories is that dreams are reproduction of incomplete thoughts or events enriched in the day. Another theory is that dreams are representation of our desire and fear. It is also propagated that our dreams are populated with the universal symbols that may be recognizable across myriad of cultures. Sometime dreams have been reported to certain warning or messages about the immediate future. It has also been suggested that dreams can be used for solving problem and arriving at solution. Many people keep dream journal. They record their dreams on daily basis. Dream journals may be maintained as a hobby or to gain better understanding of dreams and consequently oneself. Carl Juge, the famous psychologist maintained a dream journal named as a RED BOOK.

(c) Read the following paragraph carefully and answer the questions below it. 07

There is fairly universal sentiment that the use of nuclear weapon is clearly contrary to morality and that its production does not go far enough. These activities are not only opposed to morality but also to law and if the legal objection can be added to the moral, the argument against the use and manufacture of these weapons will considerably be reinforced. Now the time has come to evaluate the responsibility of scientists who knowingly use their expertise for such weapons which has deleterious effect on mankind. To this must be added the fact that more than 50 per cent of the skilled scientific manpower in the world is now engaged in the armaments industry. How appropriate is it that all this valuable skill should be devoted to the manufacture of the weapons in the world of poverty? This question must touch the scientific conscience.

A meeting of biologists on the long-term worldwide biological consequences of nuclear war added frightening dimensions to those forecasts. Its report suggested that the long biological effects resulting from climatic changes may at least be as serious as the immediate ones. Subfreezing temperatures, low light levels and high dose of ionizing and ultraviolet radiation extending for many months, after a large-scale nuclear war could destroy the biological support system of civilization, at least in the Northern Hemisphere. Post-war survivors would face starvation as well as freezing conditions in the dark and be exposed to near-lethal dose of radiation.

1. What is a universal sentiment against nuclear weapon?
2. When will the legal objection be reinforced?
3. Which question must touch the scientific conscience?

Church, justice, cart, please, fern, skin, short, urban, prize, thousand, closure, bake.
- (c) Read the following paragraph carefully and summarize it in 1/3 of its total length. 07
- The past decade has upset many preconceptions about development and this, more than anything else, makes it difficult to be overly definite about what the decade has in store. But there are a few things that one can assert with some confidence. First, education, health and productive employment are crucial booth for growth and for equity. We have tended to assume that all of these are the consequences of rapid economic growth and that growth can generate the resources required for these purposes. But, increasingly, it appears that these are better seen as causes rather than consequences. Virtually, every case of successful development involves a prior improvement in literacy, technical skills, health status and access to productive work.
- Second, technological competence is the most important endowment and it explains far larger proportion of growth in output and trade than more conventional factors like natural resources or capital accumulation. In fact, technological dynamism in the factory and the farm is more important than the presence of a large research establishment.
- Third, the environmental imperative can no longer be ignored. Today, as an international issue, it is second only to disarmament. Nationally, the developmental consequences of environmental neglect are increasingly obvious.
- In the Indian context, there are at least two further factors which reinforce the above propositions. The first is population growth. Given the pace of expansion of the population and the workforce, human resource development acquires an added urgency. Population growth is also one, but not necessarily the most important factor which underlines environmental stress in rural and urban areas. The second factor is that as a large country we cannot carve out an independent position in the global system without building up a substantial capacity for self-reliant growth. The acquisition of technical competence is crucial for this purpose. (298 words)

On 28 July, Mountbatten held a reception at which he, Patel and V.P. Menon joined forces to bully the princes. The Maharajas stood around nervously to watch this daunting triumvirate at work. Mountbatten would not be able to provide Patel with a completely full basket of apples, but it is striking that he managed to secure as many as he did. Most of the princes would disappear quietly into estate management or gin palaces, as they pleased. But an impressive number of exceptions ran for office in the new democratic India. Whatever may be said about Mountbatten's tactics or the machinations of Patel, their achievement remains remarkable. Between them, and in less than a year, it may be argued that these two men achieved a larger India, more closely integrated, than had 90 years of the British raj, 180 years of the Mughal Empire, or 130 years of Ashoka and the Maurya rulers.

(c) Read the paragraph and answer the following questions.

Secularism is the very soul of Indian society and the democracy. India has a tradition of co-existence, tolerance, cooperation, and mutual respect between all its social and religious groups. Islam came to India with Muslim conquerors. A large number of natives turned Muslims over the period and presently they make up the second-largest community of our nation. The contribution of Islam to Indian culture and civilization has been spectacular. It added variety, colour and richness to native heritage. Islam enriched India with architectural wonders, the most precious being 'Tajmahal', the symbol of aesthetic India. Christianity had preceded Islam to India. St. Thomas, the twelve disciples of Christ arrived in India to preach his message when St. Peter was in Rome. Parsi came to India in the 8th century to escape from religious persecution in Iran. They brought Zoroastrianism. Jews sailed to India 2000 years ago to settle down in Mumbai, Pune, Kochi, and Delhi. Hinduism itself was a religious conglomeration of thousands of sects having distinct beliefs, rituals, customs, and practices. Three nearly different religions branched out of it, namely, Buddhism, Jainism, and Sikhism having separate places of worship and holy books. In all, India remained a shining example of unity in diversity, nowhere else found in the world.

Honouring this eternal spirit of India, our constitution makers declared our nation to be a secular state without any discrimination. Although the people of our country are deeply religious yet they don't harbour any ill will or intolerance against other faiths. Even during the freedom struggle, the leaders who led it made secularism a basic policy to rally all the people against the British. The secular polity was fiercely strengthened by Mahatma Gandhi. Himself a deeply religious Hindu, he had great respect for all other religions and faiths.

To divide the Indians, the colonial rulers tried to destroy the file spirit of secularism by aiding and abetting communal forces. Some of our people forgot that sacred tradition and played in the hands of the British. Our country paid a terrible price for that lapse. India got divided into two nations and we lost the father of the nation, Mahatma Gandhi to the bullets of a degenerated fanatic who had no use for our secular legacy. It should teach us a lesson that only a secular spirit will keep India going.

	When we survey our lives and efforts we soon observe that almost the whole of our actions and desires are bound up with the existence of other human beings. We notice that whole nature resembles that of the social animals. We eat food that others have produced, wear clothes that others have made, live in houses that others have built. The greater part of our knowledge and beliefs has been passed on to us by other people though the medium of a language which others have created. Without language and mental capacities, we would have been poor indeed comparable to higher animals. We have, therefore, to admit that we owe our principal knowledge over the least to the fact of living in human society. The individual if left alone from birth would remain primitive and beast like in his thoughts and feelings to a degree that we can hardly imagine. The individual is what he is and has the significance that he has, not much in virtue of the individuality, but rather as a member of a great human community, which directs his material and spiritual existence from the cradle to grave.

A sanctuary may be defined as a place where Man is passive and the rest of Nature active. Till quite recently Nature had her own sanctuaries, where man either did not go at all or only as a tool-using animal in comparatively small numbers. But now, in this machinery age, there is no place left where man cannot go with overwhelming forces at his command. He can strangle to death all the nobler wild life in the world to-day. To-morrow he certainly will have done so, unless he exercises due foresight and self-control in the meantime.

There is not the slightest doubt that birds and mammals are now being killed off much faster than they can breed. And it is always the largest and noblest forms of life that suffer most. The whales and elephants, lions and eagles, go. The rats and flies, and all mean parasites, remain. This is inevitable in certain cases. But it is wanton killing off that I am speaking of to-night. Civilized man begins by destroying the very forms of wild life he learns to appreciate most when he becomes still more civilized. The obvious remedy is to begin conservation at an earlier stage, when it is easier and better in every way, by enforcing laws for close seasons, game preserves, the selective protection of certain species, and sanctuaries.

I have just defined a sanctuary as a place where man is passive and the rest of Nature active. But this general definition is too absolute for any special case. The mere fact that man has to protect a sanctuary does away with his purely passive attitude. Then, he can be beneficially active by destroying pests and parasites, like bot-flies or mosquitoes, and by finding antidotes for diseases like the epidemic which periodically kills off the rabbits and thus starves many of the carnivore to death. But, except in cases where experiment has proved his intervention to be beneficial, the less he upsets the balance of Nature the better, even when he tries to be an earthly Providence.

Q.1. The author implies that his first definition of a sanctuary is Geographic information science (GIS), often referred to as geographic information systems, is a computer-based tool that allows users to store, manage, and analyze geographic data. GIS data can be in the form of maps, images, or other types of spatial data. GIS programs can be used to create maps, analyze data, and make decisions based on the information that is gathered.

GIS is used in a wide variety of applications, including:

- Environmental planning: GIS can be used to map and analyze environmental data, such as land use, water quality, and air pollution. This information can be used to make decisions about how to protect the environment.

- Urban planning: GIS can be used to plan for the future of cities. This includes mapping population density, transportation networks, and other factors that affect urban planning.
- Business: GIS can be used to make decisions about where to locate businesses, how to market products, and how to manage supply chains.
- Government: GIS can be used to manage public resources, such as roads, parks, and schools. It can also be used to provide emergency services.

GIS is a powerful tool that can be used to make informed decisions about a wide variety of issues.

The Statue of Unity is a 600-foot tall monument that depicts the Indian freedom fighter, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. He was one of the founding fathers of the Republic of India and spent his life fighting for India's independence. The statue is a symbol of patriotism and represents Patel's legacy. The world's tallest statue, the Statue of Unity, is located in the Indian state of Gujarat and stands at a towering 600 feet. The state government fully funded the INR 3,050-crore project, covering an area of 20,000 square metres and is surrounded by a 12 square kilometre artificial lake. The statue was designed by renowned Indian sculptor Ram V. Sutar and was unveiled to the public on October 31, 2018, on the birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. Sutar is a Padma Bhushan Awardee and a Gold medalist from J.J. School of Art in Bombay. In addition to the statue itself, the complex surrounding it houses an informative museum, an expansive exhibition hall, and a dedicated research centre, providing visitors with a comprehensive understanding of Sardar Patel's life, political journey, and crucial role in the country's post-independence nation-building process. The statue represents the ideals of unity and integrity, reflecting the essence of the "Statue of Unity Movement" and symbolising the rich cultural diversity and heritage of India, fostering a sense of national pride among its people. The site has rapidly evolved into a prominent global tourist attraction, drawing visitors from all over the world to witness its grandeur and immerse themselves in the rich history and legacy of Sardar Patel's contributions to the nation's independence and unity.

Questions:

- (1) What was the significance of unveiling the Statue of Unity on October 31, 2018?
- (2) Why is the Statue of Unity considered a symbol of national pride?
- (3) What is the primary role of the complex surrounding the Statue of Unity?

It is difficult to escape the hold of spirituality in the holy and ancient city of Ayodhya. As Rama's birthplace, the city where the ring of temple bells echo in the air welcomes millions of Hindu pilgrims each year. Walking through the lanes of Ayodhya is much like stepping into the epic world of Ramayana, with temples devoted to the principal deity, Rama, dotting every corner. But during Diwali, the city resounds with grand celebrations, making it harder to overlook its holy legacy. Diwali is the homecoming celebration that marks the return of Lord Ram to his hometown of Ayodhya after his 14-year exile. The entire city is illuminated with the glow of thousands of diyas and lamps to rejoice in the celebrations. On the banks of the river Sarayu, lakhs of diyas are lit every year during Deepotsav celebration in Ayodhya. Usually held on the eve of Diwali, this year the celebrations started on November 11. The grand festival every year is marked by a record breaking number of diyas being lit, that makes for a stunning scene. You can end your Ramayan trail here by indulging in the festive fervour. Take your cameras for all the beautiful captures for your social media feed. The Ram Janmabhoomi, which translates to "the Birthplace of Ram," is considered the location of Ram's birth. Worshippers greatly regard this place, where a massive temple is under construction till early next year. It is thought that Sita Ki Rasoi, located in Rajkot on the northwest side of the Ram Janmanhoomi, was Sita's original kitchen. This holy location is now a temple with some vessels on display. One of Ayodhya's best and most well-known temples, Kanak Bhawan, is thought to have been given to Sita by Kaikei soon after her nuptials to Ram.

- Mental health is a cornerstone of success for young students, shaping their ability to learn, connect, and thrive. As they navigate academic pressures, social expectations, and personal growth, the state of their mental well-being becomes crucial. Poor mental health can lead to issues such as anxiety, depression, and decreased cognitive function, ultimately hindering academic performance and personal development. By fostering emotional resilience and providing mental health support, schools and families empower students to better cope with stress, maintain focus, and cultivate meaningful relationships. Promoting a healthy mental outlook not only aids in academic achievements but also nurtures lifelong emotional intelligence, helping young individuals become more adaptable and self-aware. Therefore, prioritizing mental well-being is not just about addressing crises but also about creating an environment where students can flourish in all aspects of their lives.

In the realm of modern technology, the evolution of artificial intelligence (AI) stands as a testament to humanity's ingenuity and ambition. AI, often defined as the simulation of human intelligence by computer systems, has revolutionized countless industries, from healthcare to finance to transportation. At its core lies the concept of machine learning, wherein algorithms analyze vast amounts of data to identify patterns, make predictions, and improve performance over time. This process, fueled by advancements in computing power and data availability, has led to the development of AI-powered applications that enhance productivity, streamline operations, and augment decision-making processes. From virtual assistants like Siri and Alexa to self-driving cars and recommendation systems, AI has become an integral part of our daily lives, shaping the way we work, communicate, and interact with the world around us. However, with great power comes great responsibility, and the rise of AI has raised ethical concerns regarding privacy, bias, and the potential for job displacement. As AI continues to proliferate, it is imperative that we prioritize transparency, accountability, and inclusivity in its development and deployment. By fostering interdisciplinary collaboration and ethical frameworks, we can harness the transformative potential of AI to create a more equitable and sustainable future for all.

- Q.4 (a) Select the correct answer from the options for the following questions. 03
- Indians as a community have always been known to be resourceful and hardworking, and it is clearly demonstrated by the students heading abroad for undergraduate or higher studies. More than ever before, the youth are switching over from a bank-loan to self financing of their studies almost invariably from the second year if not within the first six months of joining a foreign university. Part-time jobs at gas stations, restaurants, kitchens, baby-sitting, car-cleaning, fruit-picking during the harvest season - nothing seems difficult to the able bodies youth. In the recent years, along with fees, the quantum of loans has gone up. Some banks have seen nearly 50% of their clients (mostly students) becoming self-sufficient after the first tranche of the loan allocated to them. Even the number of undergraduate students who reduce their dependence on institutional support is estimated to have grown by 20-25% Estimates have also revealed that while students do seek a loan for the entire spell of two to five years, depending on the programme that they have enrolled in, smarter children have invariably succeeded in bagging an assistantship or a part-time job which helps them to fund either completely or partially the remaining spell of their studies.
- Questions True or false:
- 1 This passage discusses about all students studying abroad.
 - 2 As soon as students join the university, funding no longer remains a problem.
 - 3 The youth prefer jobs which can be easily done.
- (b) "Conclusion" is more important than "Introduction" – Comment on the statement. 04

- The internet has revolutionized the way we communicate and access information. With the click of a button, we can connect with people around the world, share ideas, and stay informed about current events. This instant access to vast amounts of information has both positive and negative implications. On the positive side, it allows for unprecedented global connectivity and the democratization of knowledge. However, it also raises concerns about privacy, misinformation, and the potential for online abuse. As we navigate this digital age, it is essential to strike a balance between the benefits and challenges posed by the internet.
