

Unit : 1 (Introduction to Technical Communication)

Lecture Notes

Communication

Definitions:

- Communication is the process of sending, receiving, and understanding messages through verbal, non-verbal, written, or visual means to share information, thoughts, ideas, or emotions between individuals or groups.
- Communication is a process of exchanging emotions, ideas, thoughts, opinions, etc between sender and receiver through accepted codes of symbols.

Purposes:

- The purposes of communication include sharing information, expressing emotions, building relationships, influencing others, and facilitating decision-making.

Process/Cycle

Sender: The person or entity initiating the communication.

Encoding: Converting thoughts or ideas into a communicable message.

Message: The information being conveyed.

Channel: The medium used to transmit the message (e.g., speech, text, email).

Decoding: Interpreting and understanding the message.

Receiver: The person or group for whom the message is intended.

Feedback: The receiver's response, ensuring the message was understood correctly.

Noise: Any interference that distorts or disrupts the message during transmission.

Types of Communication as per Flow

- Downward, Upward, Horizontal, Crosswise, Grapevine Communication

Types of Communication as per Persons involved

- Interpersonal, Intrapersonal, Extra-personal, Organizational, Mass Communication

Types of Communication as per Manner/Style

VERBAL – Oral and Written communication

NON-VERBAL – Kinesics, Proxemics, Chronemics, Paralinguistics, Appearance

- Kinesics : gestures, postures, facial expressions, body language, eye contact, haptics
- Proxemics : intimate space, personal space, social space, public space
- Chronemics : time, pauses, silences, punctuality, response time
- Paralinguistics : tone, pitch, voice modulation, rate of speech, intonation, stress

Barriers to Communication

- Physical Barriers: discomfort, noise, disturbance, physical distraction
- Psychological Barriers: mental disturbance, over emotional, anxiety, over confidence
- Linguistic Barriers: different/difficult language, jargon language
- Cultural Barriers: cultural differences, social norms, misinterpretation
- Inter-personal Barriers: ego, prejudice, pre-notions, lack of trust, poor listening skills

Technical Communication

Definition: Technical communication is the process of conveying complex, specialized, or technical information in a clear, concise, and accessible manner to specific audiences, often through documents like manuals, reports, instructions, and digital content to support understanding, decision-making, and task completion.

Purposes: The purposes of technical communication are to inform, instruct, persuade, document, and facilitate decision-making.

Difference between Technical and General Communication

Aspect	General Communication	Technical Communication
Purpose	Expresses thoughts, emotions, or information for social or personal interaction.	Conveys specialized, factual, and structured information for professional or academic use.
Audience	General public, friends, family, or colleagues.	Engineers, scientists, professionals, or specific stakeholders.
Language Style	Informal, conversational, and flexible.	Formal, precise, objective, and structured.
Content	Can include everyday topics, opinions, or emotions.	Focuses on technical data, procedures, reports, and professional documentation.
Format & Structure	Less rigid, varies based on the context.	Uses standardized formats like reports, manuals, research papers, and specifications.
Tone	Friendly, persuasive, or expressive.	Neutral, factual, and objective.
Medium	Verbal, written, or digital (e.g., emails, messages, conversations).	Reports, proposals, user manuals, technical documentation, research papers, etc.
Use of Jargon	Minimal or none, understandable to a general audience.	Heavy use of domain-specific terminology and technical jargon.
Examples	Casual conversation, social media posts, personal emails.	Engineering reports, scientific papers, project documentation, business correspondence.

- Algorithm (Computer Science) – A step-by-step procedure for solving a problem.
- Photosynthesis (Biology) – The process by which plants convert sunlight into energy.
- Bandwidth (Telecommunications) – The amount of data transmitted over a network in a given time.
- Oxidation (Chemistry) – A chemical reaction involving the loss of electrons.
- Torque (Physics) – A force that causes rotation around an axis.

Introduction to Word Formation Processes

- Compounding: Combining two or more words to create a new word. (e.g., toothbrush, football)
- Clipping: Shortening a longer word by cutting off part of it. (e.g., exam from examination, gym from gymnasium)
- Blending: Merging parts of two words to form a new one. (e.g., brunch (breakfast + lunch), smog (smoke + fog))
- Derivation (Prefixes & Suffixes): Adding affixes (prefixes or suffixes) to a base word. (e.g., unhappy (un-), happiness (-ness))
- Creative Respelling: Altering spelling for stylistic or branding purposes. (e.g., Kool for cool, lite, nite)
- Coining: Inventing entirely new words, often for new concepts or products. (ex, Google, Kleenex, selfie)
- Borrowing: Adopting words from other languages. (e.g., ballet (French), sushi (Japanese), khakhi)
- Abbreviations: Shortened forms of words or phrases, usually written with periods. (e.g., Dr. for Doctor, etc. for et cetera, Jan. for January)
- Acronyms: Words formed from the initial letters of a phrase, pronounced as a word. (e.g., UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization))

Grammar

1) Parts of speech and types of each part of speech

- Noun: The cat is sleeping.
- Pronoun: She loves reading.
- Verb: They play soccer every weekend.
- Adjective: It's a beautiful day.
- Adverb: He runs quickly.
- Preposition: The book is on the table.
- Conjunction: I was tired, but I finished the project.
- Interjection: Wow! That's amazing!

2) Tenses

- Simple Present Tense/Present Continuous Tense/Present Perfect Tense/Present Perfect Conti. Tense
- Simple Past Tense/Past Continuous Tense/Past Perfect Tense/Past Perfect Continuous Tense
- Simple Future Tense/Future Continuous Tense/Future Perfect Tense
- Verb Forms like gerund, participles (present participles, perfect participles etc), infinitive

3) Articles (a, an, the)

4) Subject-Verb Agreement

5) Active/Passive Voice

6) Other grammar topics:

- phrases, clauses, types of sentences (simple, compound, complex), direct-indirect speech, punctuation, capitalisation, simple auxiliaries, modal auxiliaries, degrees of comparison, translation

Unit : 3 (Developing Basic Writing Skill)

Lecture Notes

A) Styles of Writing

- Narrative Style
 - Tells a story or recounts events.
 - Includes characters, setting, plot, and conflict.
 - Example: short stories, autobiographies.
- Descriptive Style
 - Focuses on detailing a person, place, object, or event.
 - Uses sensory language to create vivid imagery.
 - Often used in poetry, journals, and essays.
- Expository Style
 - Explains or informs the reader about a topic.
 - Factual, objective, and logical.
 - Common in textbooks, articles, and how-to guides.
- Persuasive Style
 - Aims to convince the reader of a point of view or argument.
 - Uses logic, reasoning, and emotional appeal.
 - Found in editorials, reviews, and advertisements.
- Reflective Style
 - Explores thoughts, feelings, or personal experiences.
 - Introspective and subjective.
 - Often seen in journals, blogs, and reflective essays.

B) Paragraph Writing: Elements and Practice

- Definition
 - A paragraph is a group of related sentences focusing on a single idea.
- Elements
 - Topic Sentence: Introduces the main idea.
 - Supporting Sentences: Provide evidence, examples, or explanations.
 - Concluding Sentence: Summarizes or transitions to the next paragraph.
- Unity
 - All sentences should relate to the main idea.
- Coherence
 - Logical flow and use of transitions (e.g., firstly, however, in addition).
- Practice Tips
 - Use mind maps or outlines.
 - Revise for clarity and relevance.
 - Vary sentence structure to maintain interest.

C) Object / Picture / Scene Description

- Purpose
 - To create a vivid image in the reader's mind.

- Elements
 - Observation: Pay attention to detail.
 - Sensory Language: Use sight, sound, smell, taste, and touch.
 - Order: Describe from general to specific or left to right/top to bottom.
- Object Description
 - Mention size, shape, color, texture, and function.
- Picture Description
 - Identify setting, people, actions, and mood.
- Scene Description
 - Set the atmosphere (e.g., peaceful park, chaotic market).
 - Include time of day, weather, and background.

D) Précis Writing

- Definition
 - A précis is a concise summary of a passage that retains essential points.
- Features
 - Clear, accurate, and brief.
 - Written in the writer's own words.
 - Typically one-third of the original text.
- Steps
 - Read and understand the passage thoroughly.
 - Identify the main idea and key points.
 - Eliminate examples, repetitions, and illustrations.
 - Write the précis in a logical and coherent manner.
- Here are ten ways to produce more vivid, direct, concise prose by replacing wordy phrases with fewer words and reorganizing sentences. It is not advisable to employ these strategies indiscriminately, but prose will usually be improved by following the recommendations below.
 1. Use Active Voice
 - When a sentence includes be or any other copulative verb, such as is or are, recast the sentence to omit the verb.
Before: "The meeting was seen by us as a ploy to delay the project."
After: "We saw the meeting as a ploy to delay the project."
 2. Avoid Vague Nouns
 - Phrases formed around general nouns such as aspect, degree, and situation clutter sentences.
Before: "She is an expert in the area of international relations."
After: "She is an expert in international relations."
 3. Use Words, Not Their Definitions
 - Replace explanatory phrases with a single word that encapsulates that explanation.
Before: "The crops also needed to be marketable so that families would be able to sell any yields that exceeded what they personally required."
After: "The crops also needed to be marketable so that families would be able to sell any surplus."
 4. Avoid Noun Strings
 - Reorganize sentences to eliminate series of nouns used as adjectives.
Before: "The lack of a secure transfer may hamper computer security incident response efforts."
After: "The lack of a secure transfer may hamper responses to computer-security incidents."
 5. Convert Nouns to Verbs
 - When a sentence includes a noun ending in -tion, change the noun to a verb to simplify the sentence.

Before: "They will collaborate in the creation of new guidelines."

After: "They will collaborate to create new guidelines."

6. Reduce Verb Phrases to Simple Verbs

- Identify the verb buried in a verb phrase and omit the rest of the phrase.

Before: "The results are suggestive of the fact that tampering has occurred."

After: "The results suggest that tampering has occurred."

7. Replace Complex Words with Simple Ones

- Choose simpler synonyms for multisyllabic words.

Before: "The department will disseminate the forms soon."

After: "The department will pass out the forms soon."

8. Avoid Expletives

- Don't start sentences with "There is," "There are," or "It is."

Before: "There are many factors in the product's failure."

After: "Many factors contributed to the product's failure."

9. Eliminate Prepositional Phrases

- Replace "(noun1) of the (noun2)" phrasing with "(noun2)'s (noun1)" phrasing.

Before: "The decision of the committee is final."

After: "The committee's decision is final."

10. Reduce Wordy Phrases to Single Words

- Replace phrases that signal a transition with simple conjunctions, verbs, or other linking words.

Before: Due to the fact that the project is behind schedule, today's meeting has been postponed.

After: Because the project is behind schedule, today's meeting has been postponed.

E) Proof Reading

- Definition
 - The process of checking written text for errors in grammar, punctuation, and spelling.
- Types of Errors to Check
 - Spelling Mistakes
 - Punctuation Errors
 - Grammar and Tense Issues
 - Subject-Verb Agreement
 - Formatting and Spacing
- Strategies
 - Read aloud to catch errors.
 - Check one type of error at a time.
 - Take breaks before proofreading.
 - Use tools (e.g., dictionaries, grammar checkers).
- Common Mistakes
 - Homophones (e.g., their/there/they're)
 - Misplaced modifiers
 - Repeated words

F) Completion of Given Story

- Purpose
 - To creatively continue and conclude a provided story beginning.
- Steps
 - Understand the plot, characters, and setting provided.
 - Identify possible conflicts and resolutions.

- Maintain the tone and style of the original text.
- End with a logical or surprising conclusion.
- Tips
 - Use narrative techniques (dialogue, suspense, pacing).
 - Keep the story coherent and focused.
 - Avoid abrupt or unrelated endings.

G) Letter Writing

Formats

- Formal Letter
 - Sender's address
 - Date
 - Receiver's address
 - Salutation (e.g., Dear Sir/Madam)
 - Body (Introduction, Purpose, Conclusion)
 - Closing (Yours faithfully)
 - Signature
- Informal Letter
 - Friendly tone
 - Personal topics
 - Free structure but still organized

Types

- Asking for Leave
 - Mention reason and duration.
 - Be polite and concise.
 - Include dates and contact information.
- Apology Letter
 - Clearly state the apology and reason.
 - Express regret and seek forgiveness.
 - Offer to make amends if possible.
- Appreciation Letter
 - Thank the person for their actions or service.
 - Mention specific instances or qualities.
 - Use positive and encouraging language.
- Acknowledgement Letter
 - Confirm receipt of goods, documents, or messages.
 - State appreciation if applicable.
 - Provide next steps if relevant.

FOR WRITING in EXAM, you need to develop each point with explanation in detail and some examples.

Unit : 4 (Speaking Skills)

Lecture Notes

A) Introduction to Phonetics

- Definition: Phonetics is the study of the sounds of human speech.
- Branches of Phonetics:
 - Articulatory Phonetics: How speech sounds are produced.
 - Acoustic Phonetics: Physical properties of speech sounds (sound waves).
 - Auditory Phonetics: How sounds are perceived by the ear.
- Importance:
 - Helps in accurate pronunciation.
 - Improves spoken communication.
 - Useful in language teaching and linguistics.

B) IPA (International Phonetic Alphabet)

- Definition:
 - A standardized system of symbols used to represent speech sounds across languages.
- Features:
 - One symbol for each sound (phoneme).
 - Covers consonants, vowels, stress, and intonation.
 - Avoids confusion from inconsistent spelling.
- Use: For transcribing sounds in dictionaries, language studies, and speech training.
- Example: Word: "cat" – IPA: /kæt/

C) Place of Articulation & Transcription

Place of Articulation: Where in the vocal tract the sound is produced.

Types:

- Bilabial: Both lips (e.g., /p/, /b/)
- Labiodental: Lip + teeth (e.g., /f/, /v/)
- Dental: Tongue + teeth (e.g., /θ/, /ð/)
- Alveolar: Tongue + alveolar ridge (e.g., /t/, /d/, /s/)
- Palatal: Tongue + hard palate (e.g., /j/, /ʒ/)
- Velar: Tongue + soft palate (e.g., /k/, /g/)
- Glottal: Sound from glottis (e.g., /h/)
- Transcription: Writing the pronunciation of words using IPA symbols.

For Phonetic Design and Transcription, please refer LAB MANUAL Activity- 11.

D) Presentation Skills – An Introduction

- Definition: The ability to communicate ideas effectively to an audience.
- Purpose: To inform, persuade, or entertain.
- Key Aspects: Content clarity, Voice modulation and body language
 - Use of visual aids, Audience engagement

Analyzing Audience and Locale

- Audience Analysis:
 - Know demographics: age, education, interest.
 - Understand expectations and knowledge level.
- Locale Consideration:
 - Room size and layout.
 - Equipment availability (e.g., projector, mic).
 - Cultural or formal setting.

Organizing a Presentation

- Structure:
 - Introduction: Greet, state purpose, outline.
 - Body: Main points with supporting facts or visuals.
 - Conclusion: Summarize, give takeaways, invite questions.
- Tips:
 - Use signposting (e.g., “firstly”, “let’s move on”).
 - Practice timing and transitions.
 - Prepare for Q&A.

E) Introduction to Group Communication

- Definition:
 - Communication involving three or more individuals working toward a shared goal.
- Importance:
 - Encourages teamwork and collaboration.
 - Promotes idea exchange and decision-making.
- Types:
 - Face-to-face meetings
 - Online group chats or video calls
 - Brainstorming sessions
- Skills Needed: Active listening, Clarity in speech, Respect for others’ views, Conflict resolution

F) Conversations

- Definition: Informal or formal spoken exchanges between two or more people
- Types:
 - Casual (with friends/family)
 - Professional (interviews, meetings)
 - Instructional (teacher-student)
- Features:
 - Turn-taking
 - Politeness and etiquette
 - Relevance and coherence
- Tips:
 - Maintain eye contact.
 - Avoid interrupting.
 - Use appropriate body language.

G) Debates

- Definition: A formal discussion where opposing arguments are presented.
- Purpose: To persuade, inform, and critically examine issues.
- Structure:
 - Opening statement → Arguments → Rebuttals → Closing statement
- Skills Required: Logical reasoning, Persuasion, Quick thinking and rebuttal
- Tips:
 - Stick to facts.
 - Respect opponents.
 - Speak clearly and confidently.

H) Dialogues

- Definition:
 - A written or spoken conversation between two or more characters.
- Uses:
 - In plays, films, literature, and language learning.
- Key Elements:
 - Natural language
 - Clear speaker turns
 - Reflects character and situation
- Practice Tips:
 - Use realistic tone and context.
 - Focus on clarity and continuity.
 - Include emotional expression.

I) Group Discussions (GDs)

- Definition:
 - A structured conversation among a group on a given topic, often used in recruitment or learning.
- Purpose:
 - Assess communication, leadership, teamwork, and critical thinking skills.
- Phases:
 - Initiation → Discussion → Summarization
- Do's:
 - Stay relevant and concise.
 - Encourage others and build on points.
 - Use facts and examples.
- Don'ts:
 - Interrupt rudely.
 - Dominate or remain silent.
 - Get emotional or personal.

FOR WRITING in EXAM, you need to develop each point with explanation in detail and some examples.

Unit : 5 (Listening & Reading Skills)

Lecture Notes

A) Meaning, Importance, and Purpose of Listening

- Meaning:
 - Listening is the active process of receiving, constructing meaning from, and responding to spoken or non-verbal messages.
- Importance:
 - Essential for effective communication.
 - Builds relationships and enhances understanding.
 - Critical for learning and academic success.
 - Improves productivity and reduces misunderstandings.
- Purpose:
 - To gain information.
 - To understand feelings and perspectives.
 - To respond appropriately.
 - To enjoy and appreciate (e.g., music, storytelling).

B) Listening Vs. Hearing

- Hearing:
 - Passive process.
 - Perception of sound without focused attention.
 - Involuntary and effortless.
- Listening:
 - Active process.
 - Requires focus, attention, and interpretation.
 - Voluntary and effortful.
- Key Difference:
 - Hearing is physical; Listening is psychological and cognitive.
 - Hearing is compulsory (if no physical defect) but listening is voluntary.

C) Types of Listening

- Active Listening:
 - Full attention, feedback given, engagement with the speaker.
- Passive Listening:
 - Listening without response or attention; often inattentive.
- Critical Listening:
 - Evaluating the message for logic, truth, and credibility.
- Empathetic Listening:
 - Understanding emotions and feelings behind the message.
- Appreciative Listening:
 - Listening for enjoyment (e.g., music, poetry).
- Selective Listening:
 - Hearing only what one wants to hear; can be biased.

D) Barriers to Effective Listening

- Physical Barriers:
 - Noise, distance, poor audio quality.
- Psychological Barriers:
 - Stress, bias, preconceptions, emotional reactions.
- Language Barriers:
 - Accents, unfamiliar vocabulary, jargon.
- Physiological Barriers:
 - Hearing loss, fatigue, illness.
- Environmental Barriers:
 - Distractions, multitasking, interruptions.

E) Traits of a Good Listener

- Focused Attention:
 - Maintains eye contact, avoids distractions.
- Empathy:
 - Understands and respects speaker's feelings.
- Open-mindedness:
 - Listens without prejudice or judgment.
- Patience:
 - Does not interrupt; allows speaker to finish.
- Active Feedback:
 - Asks questions, paraphrases, nods or uses gestures.
- Good Memory:
 - Remembers key points and follows up if needed.

F) Introduction, Meaning, and Purpose of Reading

- Introduction:
 - Reading is a foundational skill essential for academic and personal growth.
- Meaning:
 - Reading is the process of decoding symbols to derive meaning from written text.
- Purpose:
 - To gain knowledge and information.
 - For pleasure and entertainment.
 - To develop critical thinking and imagination.
 - To improve language and vocabulary skills.

G) Tips for Improving Reading Skills

- Set Clear Goals:
 - Know why you are reading — for detail, gist, or enjoyment.
- Expand Vocabulary:
 - Learn new words regularly and use them in context.
- Practice Regularly:
 - Make reading a daily habit.
- Take Notes:
 - Highlight important points, make summaries.
- Read a Variety of Materials:

- Newspapers, novels, essays, academic texts.
- Avoid Sub-vocalization:
 - Reduce the habit of reading aloud in your head to increase speed.

H) Techniques for Effective Reading

- Skimming:
 - Reading quickly to get the general idea.
 - Focus on headings, subheadings, and keywords.
- Scanning:
 - Searching for specific information (dates, names, facts).
 - Ignore irrelevant details.
- Understanding Structure of Text:
 - Identify introduction, body, and conclusion.
 - Recognize patterns (cause-effect, comparison, chronology).
- Punctuation Awareness:
 - Use punctuation to guide pauses and meaning.
 - Helps in understanding tone and emphasis.
- Author's Point of View:
 - Determine the author's attitude, opinion, or intent.
 - Analyze persuasive language, tone, and bias.
- Reader's Point of View:
 - Reflect on personal understanding or interpretation.
 - Make inferences and connections to prior knowledge.

I) Reading Comprehension

- Definition:
 - The ability to read a text, process it, and understand its meaning.
- Key Skills Involved:
 - Identifying main ideas and supporting details.
 - Drawing inferences and conclusions.
 - Understanding vocabulary in context.
 - Analyzing tone, purpose, and structure.
- Strategies:
 - Read the questions first (to focus attention).
 - Highlight or underline key points.
 - Summarize paragraphs in your own words.
 - Practice with various genres and difficulty levels.
- Purpose:
 - Enhances academic performance.
 - Builds analytical and critical thinking.
 - Develops lifelong learning abilities.

FOR WRITING in EXAM, you need to develop each point with explanation in detail and some examples.

Unit : 6 (Enhancing Language through Literature)

Lecture Notes

The Red Rice Granary by Sudha Murty

The Red Rice Granary by Sudha Murty is a heartwarming story that reflects on family values, tradition, and the importance of generosity. Here's the plot and sequence of events:

Plot Summary:

- The story revolves around a family's red rice granary, which becomes a symbol of tradition, gratitude, and compassion. It highlights how acts of kindness and a sense of community contribute to a fulfilling life.

Introduction to the Granary:

- The narrator introduces the red rice granary, a large storage container passed down through generations.
- It represents the family's prosperity and serves as a reminder of their ancestors' hard work.

Family Values and Tradition:

- The family believes in sharing rice with the less fortunate.
- The granary is always refilled after every harvest, ensuring that it never remains empty.

A Life Lesson in Generosity:

- The narrator learns about the importance of giving when they observe their elders distributing rice to those in need.
- Sudha Murty illustrates how kindness strengthens community bonds.

A Challenge Arises:

- One year, the harvest is poor, and the family faces a dilemma.
- Despite the scarcity, the elders decide to continue giving rice, trusting that generosity will bring abundance.

The Miracle of Giving:

- To everyone's surprise, the granary never runs out of rice.
- The narrator realizes that selfless giving has its own rewards.

Moral and Reflection:

- The story concludes with a reflection on how acts of generosity create a cycle of abundance.
- The red rice granary becomes a metaphor for the wealth of kindness and the enduring power of tradition.

Theme:

- The story underscores the importance of empathy, gratitude, and the belief that kindness comes back manifold.

The Gift of Magi by O. Henry

"The Gift of the Magi" tells the story of a young, poor couple, Della and Jim Dillingham Young, who desperately want to buy each other meaningful Christmas presents despite their limited finances; Della decides to sell her prized possession, her long beautiful hair, to buy a platinum fob chain for Jim's cherished gold pocket watch, while Jim simultaneously sells his watch to purchase expensive hair combs for Della's hair, creating a heartwarming yet ironic twist where neither gift can be fully utilized due to the sacrifices made.

Introduction:

- We are introduced to Della and Jim, a young couple struggling to make ends meet, with their most prized possessions being Della's long hair and Jim's inherited gold pocket watch.

Della's Dilemma:

- As Christmas approaches, Della realizes she doesn't have enough money to buy Jim a substantial gift. She decides to sell her hair to a wig shop to afford a platinum fob chain for his watch, believing it will be the perfect gift.

Jim's Decision:

- Meanwhile, Jim is also grappling with the same dilemma and chooses to sell his treasured watch to buy Della a set of beautiful jeweled hair combs.

The Gift Exchange:

- Della, now with short hair, excitedly presents the watch chain to Jim. However, when he sees her new appearance, he is initially stunned, realizing he can no longer use the combs he bought for her hair.

The Revelation:

- Jim explains that he sold his watch to buy her the combs, and Della reveals her sacrifice by selling her hair to get him the chain.

The Climax:

- Despite the irony of their gifts being rendered useless due to their actions, both Jim and Della understand the true meaning of their presents - the depth of their love and sacrifice for each other.

The story ends with O. Henry comparing them to the Magi, the wise men who brought gifts to baby Jesus. Their selfless love makes them the wisest gift-givers of all.

The Irony of Sacrifice

The World-Renowned Nose by V.M.Basheer

The World-Renowned Nose is a short story written by Vaikom Muhammad Basheer and published in 1954 in an anthology of the same name. The story is regarded as a classic in Malayalam literature. It is a socio-political satire about an illiterate cook whose nose starts to grow from the day he turns 24. The nose grows like an elephant's trunk. The poor cook becomes rich in no time and starts to give opinions on national and international matters. The story expands on the complications arising from the long nose of the ordinary man. By using this simple topic, the nose, Basheer is exposing the social conduct through comedy.

Introduction of Mookkann:

- A simple village man (cook) with an unusually large and prominent nose.

Curiosity and Fascination:

- The villagers become fascinated by the size of Mookkann's nose and start discussing it.

Growing Popularity:

- Mookkann's nose becomes the talk of the town; people nickname it the World-Renowned Nose.

Scientific Interest: A doctor is invited to examine the nose, declaring it a unique, natural marvel.

Media Attention: News articles cover the nose, and Mookkann enjoys widespread recognition.

Mookkann's Vanity:

- The fame gets to his head; he becomes arrogant and begins to look down on others.

Villagers' Reaction: The villagers grow tired of his pride and lose interest in the nose.

Mookkann's Realization:

- Left alone, Mookkann realizes the transient nature of fame and the foolishness of his vanity.

Moral:

- External appearances and fame are fleeting, while humility and genuine relationships are more enduring.

The Lady or, The Tiger? by Frank R. Stockton

"The Lady, or the Tiger?" is a much-anthologized short story written by Frank R. Stockton for publication in the November issue of The Century Magazine in 1882. "The Lady, or the Tiger?" has entered the English language as an allegorical expression, a shorthand indication or signifier, for a problem that is unsolvable.

The story is set in a semi-barbaric kingdom ruled by a king who uses a unique form of justice: an accused person is placed in an arena with two doors. Behind one door is a beautiful lady, whom the accused must marry if chosen. Behind the other is a fierce, hungry tiger that will immediately kill them. The choice is left entirely to fate.

The king has a daughter, a princess, who falls in love with a commoner. When the king discovers this forbidden romance, he orders the young man to face the arena. The princess learns which door hides the lady and which hides the tiger. On the day of the trial, her lover looks at her for guidance, and she subtly gestures toward one of the doors.

The story ends with a cliffhanger, leaving the reader to decide whether the princess directed her lover to the lady or the tiger. The princess, consumed by jealousy over the chosen lady but also by love for the young man, faces an impossible dilemma. She contemplates the pros and cons of each option, though notably considering the lady more. "And so I leave it with all of you: Which came out of the opened door – the lady, or the tiger?"

Storyline Breakdown:

1. Introduction:

- The king's method of justice involves a public arena with two doors: one hiding a tiger, the other a lady.
- The princess falls in love with a commoner.

2. Rising Action:

- The king disapproves of the relationship and sends the lover to the arena.
- The princess discovers which door conceals the lady and which holds the tiger.

3. Climax:

- The lover looks to the princess for help; she signals toward one door.

4. Falling Action:

- The young man confidently opens the door she indicated.

5. Conclusion:

- The story ends ambiguously, leaving readers to ponder the princess's choice.
